ADAMSON MEASURE SCORED BY HUGHES AS FORCE MEASURE

G. O. P. Candidate Bitterly Attacks Administration for Conceding 8-Hour Law at the Demand of Railway Brotherhoods.

8-HR. DAY NOT INVOLVED, BUT INCREASE IN WAGES

Springfield, Ill., September 19.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in the Arsenal here tonight, renewed his attack on the administration for the passage of the Adamson law in the face of the threatened railroad strike. He discussed and called "futile" reasons advocated for its passage, quoted from President Wilson's address to congress on the subject, challenged the statement of Representative Adamson that it was passed to meet an emergency, and cited a declaration attributed to Grover Cleveland in support of the contention that the law was "a surrender to force."

Hughes Attacks Adamson Bill.

Mr. Hughes, after declaring that "the just interests of labor are the concern of all," and asserting that he desired to see safe and wholesome conditions of work, adequate opportunities for education and recreation, reasonable hours of labor and fair wages, said in part:

"The Adamson bill is a force bill. It was legislation without inquiry, without knowledge. The demand by the administration for such legislation as the price of peace was a humiliating spectacle. It was not only a serious misuse of official power, but a deplorable abdication of moral authority.

"The excuses presented are futile. The Adamson bill is not a bill providing for an eight-hour work day. It does not fix hours at all. It regulates wages. . . . What it does is to provide by law for an increase in wages for certain men. They may work just as long as before. They may work ten hours or more. They are simply to get more pay."

Mr. Hughes quoted the Adamson law, showing, he said, "in plain English" that the men affected are not required to work fewer hours, but are to have ten hours' pay for eight hours' work, with additional pay for additional hours.

"We have words which may seem to mean one thing and in fact mean another," the candidate continued. "The phrase 'eight-hour day' is apparently used to tickle the public ear in order to establish something quite different. . . . It is said for this bill that it will have a tendency to procure an eight-hour day. That is extremely doubtful. . . .

"This bill must be judged by what it provides, not by what it does not provide. It is nothing more than a measure to fix wages and as a measure to fix wages it must be judged. . . .

"We are, therefore, not concerned with anything that is said of the judgment of society with respect to an eight-hour work day. There is plainly no judgment of society upon the increase of wages this bill requires.

"If the asserted judgment of society inspired it, why does the act apply only to a limited number of railroad men, relatively few? . . . The obvious fact is that there was a demand by certain men for an increase in their own wages, and the administration in advance of investigation surrendered to this demand."

Pointing out that the Adamson bill itself conceded that the subject was one requiring investigation, Mr. Hughes said that if there was anything requiring a careful inquiry it was "a proposition affecting readjustment either of rates or of expenses of carriers," upon whose efficiency "the community depends." He continued:

"What is fair and right must be done, but what is fair and right must first be ascertained. When railroads are required to expend additional millions, this burden must ultimately fall on the public. If expenses are necessarily increased beyond what existing rates will stand, the rates must be increased.

"It was proposed in substance by the administration that increased rates should be charged to shippers so far as required to pay this increase of wages. Assurance was given that 'no obstacle of law' would be suffered to stand in the way of railroads in increasing their revenue to meet resulting increased expenses so far as development of business and if their ad-

NEW YORK MOBS OVERPOWER POLICE

Serious Rioting Marks the Transit Strike—Men Beaten and Property Destroyed. Sympathetic Strike Likely.

New York, September 19.—The most serious rioting since the transit strike in this city began two weeks ago occurred tonight in various sections of Manhattan when attempts were made to run cars on the Forty-second and Fifty-ninth street cross-town surface lines. Mobs of strikers and their sympathizers stormed two car barns, overpowering the police and putting to flight all railway employees in the vicinities.

Several Men Beaten.

Several motormen and conductors who had not joined the strike were beaten. Much property damage had been done before police reserves arrived.

The police assert that the strikers took advantage of the fact that many policemen were detailed to polling booths in today's primary election here. The strikers apparently planned their attacks, it was said, as disorders occurred in many places at the same time.

At Forty-second street and Broadway, one of the busiest spots in the city, a crowd bombarded a car with stone they had gathered from a subway excavation.

The police reported late tonight that all surface cars had been ordered to the barns for the rest of the night.

Numerous arrests were made and many of the rioters were clubbed by the police. Several passengers were hurt by missiles.

Later, the strikers attacked the elevated trains with bottles and bricks from housetops. Policemen then were stationed on the roofs along elevated routes.

Great Sympathy Strike Probable.

After a citizens' committee had failed to effect a basis of settlement between the striking union car men and their employers here today it was announced tonight that apparently the only hope of averting a threatened sympathetic walkout of 700,000 workers, set for Friday, now lies in a final appeal to be made to the labor leaders Thursday. The citizens' committee probably will confer tomorrow with Mayor Mitchel and Oscar S. Straus, chairman of the public service commission, in an effort to find some solution of the problem.

After a conference today with the mayor and Mr. Straus the committee visited Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit and the New York Railways company, and, it was said, proposed to him a plan for the peaceable adjustment of the present differences.

Attitude of Shonts.

Mr. Shonts it was learned tonight, informed the committee that he would refuse to meet representatives of the strikers. He said that even if he were disposed to treat with the strikers, he could not do so, because the 11,000 loyal employees of his company which made the possible continuation of the traffic of the subways and elevated railroads, had threatened to strike if the Interborough recognized the strikers' union.

In the meantime a meeting of the central conference committee of the strikers was held to count the strike votes of those organizations which already had voted. Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Central Federated union, announced at the close of the meeting that communications had been received from "three unorganized groups of employees in three great industries asking permission to join in the strike."

Episcopalians May Quit Praying for Jews, Turks, Infidels and the Heretics

New York, September 19.—A proposal to omit from the prayer book of the Protestant Episcopal church prayers for Jews, Turks, infidels and heretics will be submitted to the Episcopal triennial general convention, to be held in St. Louis in October. The proposed changes are approved by the special commission on the revision of the prayer book.

The proposal to eliminate the Jews from Episcopal prayers is based on the ground that it is an insult to class them with infidels and heretics. The purpose in striking out the Turks from the prayers is to avoid confusing them with Mohammedans. The prayer as proposed reads:

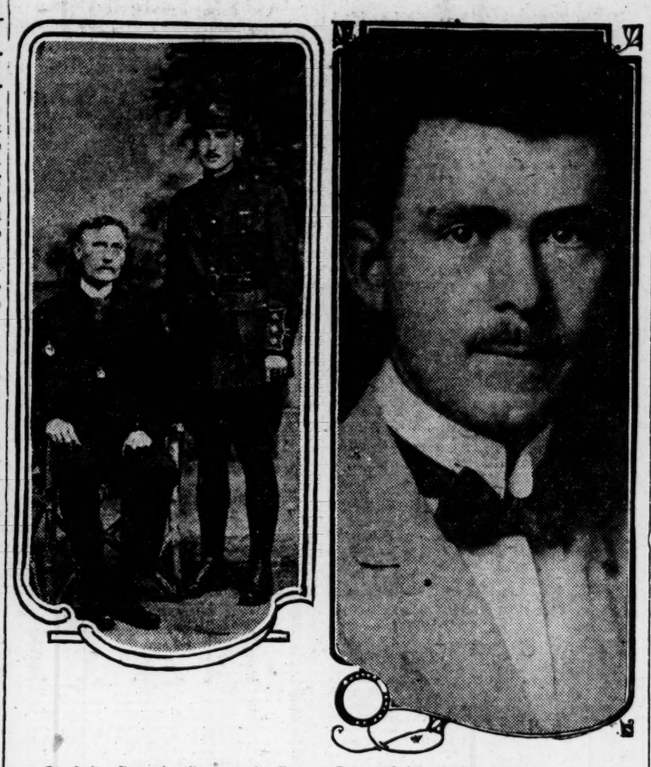

"Have mercy upon all who know Thee not as revealed in the gospel of Thy son."

DYNAMITE IS USED ON SCHOOL BUILDING

Poplarville, Miss., September 19.—The Loyal Consolidated school, a two-story brick building, was partly wrecked by dynamite here last night and a large barn, the property of the school, burned. Bloodhounds were brought from Crystal Springs, Miss., but up to a late hour had failed to find a trail.

Grievances against the school is thought to have inspired the vandals. The Loyal school was one of the largest and best equipped consolidated schools in the state.

Two Atlanta Men Are Decorated For Courage Shown in Fighting In Ranks of the Entente Allies

On left, Captain George A. Speer, Jr., and his father, George A. Speer, Sr., picture made in England while the former was on sick leave from the Flanders battle front and was being visited by his father, of Atlanta. On the breast of Captain Speer's uniform may be seen the bar of ribbon which is the insignia of the Order of the Military Cross, which he has won through his bravery. On the right is W. B. Seabrook, well known here, information of whose decoration was received in Atlanta this week.

News was received in Atlanta Tuesday of new honors won by two Atlanta boys at the battle front in France.

One of these is W. B. Seabrook, formerly of the Lewis-Seabrook company, of Atlanta, who has been decorated with the "Croix de Guerre" for bravery in driving a hospital ambulance with the American Red Cross "somewhere in France." Mr. and Mrs. Seabrook expect to return to Atlanta about October 15.

The other is George A. Speer, Jr., formerly of Atlanta, now a captain of a Canadian regiment with the British expeditionary forces in Flanders, who is soon to be—if, indeed, he has not already been—decorated by his majesty, King George of England. This information is contained in a letter which his father, George A. Speer, Sr., who is now with him in England, has written to Mrs. Speer.

The letter states that this signal honor was to come to the young Atlantan at "the next investiture, proba-

Sixteen-Cent Cotton Expected in Atlanta Spot Market Today

Market Closes Tuesday at 15.80—Wise Ones Believe Price Will Not Stop at 16 Cents, But Will Go Past 17 Cents.

Sixteen cents for cotton! And after 16 cents it may reach 17.

The market has not reached that point here yet, but, according to the views of some cotton experts, and the general trend of the market, both local and foreign, 17 cents for the staple seems a decided probability.

Tuesday the quotation on local spot cotton jumped 40 points to 15.80. And, a great many believe, the stunt will be repeated Wednesday.

Then, there is a greatly increased movement in the cotton here. Tuesday in Atlanta, 2,403 bales were received, 1,461 bales shipped, and a total stock of 16,163 reported. Monday the figures showed 1,398 bales received, 359 bales shipped and a total stock of 15,221 bales on hand.

And not only in Atlanta is the spot market improved. In other southern cities the rise is reported substantial. In New Orleans spot cotton gained 25 points and the market closed steady. In Montgomery September cotton reached 15.44, a new high record for that point, and there were 511 bales sold at this figure. In Huntsville spot cotton sold at 15.64, the highest level in many years; and in Mobile cotton went up $1.25 per bale, a jump of 25 points. Sales of 275 bales at this figure are reported.

The future markets, on the failure of southern offerings to increase, jumped 31 points in both New Orleans and New York. This figure is the gain in the December delivery. Other months are in keeping.

It may be that cotton will not bring 20 cents as was at first predicted, but if the crop falls short of the 20-cent mark it will rest at a level very near to that price.

NOTED FRENCH FLYER POSTED AS MISSING

Paris, September 19.—Flight Lieutenant de Rochfert, who brought down his sixth German machine on Saturday, has been posted as missing.

Flight Adjutant Tarascon, who was mentioned in yesterday's official statement by the war office as having brought down his fifth enemy machine, has only one leg. The other was amputated as a result of an aeroplane accident prior to the war. Adjutant Tarascen's artificial leg was smashed by a shell splinter during one of his latest daring flights.

PERSHING CONSIDERED FOR MAJOR GENERAL

Washington, September 19.—Brigadier General John J. Pershing, commander of the American punitive expedition in Mexico and ranking brigadier of the army, probably will be made a major general, a vacancy in that grade having been created by the death, yesterday, of Major General Mills. A successor to General Mills as chief of the bureau of militia affairs has not been selected.

WHITMAN PREFERRED BY N. Y. PROGRESSIVES

New York, September 19.—With returns from less than one-third of the districts in the state received at midnight, Governor Charles S. Witman was leading Judge Samuel Seabury, democrat, for the progressive indorsement for governor. Only a fraction of the 46,000 enrolled progressives in the state voted, an average of only about four to a district.

The progressive vote aroused more interest among state and national leaders than any other feature of the primary, for it was regarded as giving some light on how the strength of the party would be divided in the national election. A majority of the progressive leaders of the state supported Mr. Whitman's candidacy. The leaders of the so-called insurgent wing who gave their aid to Judge Seabury professed to be more than satisfied with the result.

In sixty-one up-state districts heard from at midnight Seabury led Whitman, but by less than 100 votes.

The contest between former Congressman William M. Calder and Robert Bacon, former ambassador to France, for the republican nomination for the United States senate, was the most closely contested in either the republican or democratic primary. With returns complete from 2,885 districts out of 5,719 in the state, Bacon had received 70,415 votes and Calder 67,251.

William F. McCombs, former chairman of the democratic national committee, who was designated for the senatorial nomination by the unofficial democratic state convention, was leading his opponent, Thomas F. Conway, a former lieutenant governor, by more than 2 to 1 at midnight.

State Senator William M. Bennett, who opposed Governor Whitman for the republican nomination, had received only 15,671 votes compared with 87,696 for Whitman.

SHERIFF'S POSSE FIGHTS WITH FLORIDA BANDITS

Boat Containing the Possemen Sunk by Bullets From the Rifles of Outlaws.

Miami, Fla., September 19.—The sheriff's posse, which lost three men killed in a fight Saturday with four bandits, accused of robbing the State Bank of Homestead, Fla., came up on the outlaws again today, and in a long distance fight that followed the boat containing the possemen was sunk by rifle bullets. None of the pursuers were hurt, however, according to information reaching here tonight which said the fight took place near Rock Harbor and that the bandits were driven ashore on Largo key.

The bandits, who have been chased through the Everglades by a determined force led by Sheriff Dan Hardie since Friday, last, when they obtained $6,000 from the Homestead bank and escaped in an automobile, apparently had got a new boat since the one in which it was thought they first took to the waters that surround numberless keys, or small islands, along the coast, was found abandoned today.

Reinforcements were rushed to the posse on a railway motor car over the overseas railway to Key West and the chase was continued tonight. Heavy rains today made difficult the work of the pursuers.

W. I. NIX BATTLES SIX HIGHWAYMEN

In Desperate Encounter He Puts Negro Desperadoes to Flight, Wounding One Severely—Own Clothes Cut in Shreds.

After a desperate hand-to-hand encounter with six negro highwaymen, W. I. Nix, of 367 Greensferry avenue, succeeded in putting his assailants to flight at the corner of Greensferry avenue and Holderness street last night. The negroes secured $25 in cash and a small pocket knife.

Mr. Nix was returning to his home from work when the highwaymen attacked him. He drew his pocket knife and held them off for a time. He says that he cut four of them in the melee and is sure that he wounded one severely in the neck.

They in turn struck him with knives, but did not reach his body. They cut his clothes in many places, however. After they had secured his money and had disarmed him, the negroes took to their heels, but they fired a fusillade of pistol shots at him as they ran away. Mr. Nix says that he counted as many as ten shots.

As soon as he could do so, Mr. Nix reported the robbery to the police, and Officers Milan and Hornsby were assigned to the case. Up to a late hour last night none of the robbers had been captured.

The assailed man was unable to furnish a description of the robbers to the police, except of the one who grappled him most closely and whom he says he wounded in the neck. This was a dark-skinned negro, about 5 feet 8 inches in height, and weighed about 140 pounds. Mr. Nix says he was bleeding profusely from the wound in his neck as he fled away.

Nix is about 25 years old and is by no means a man of formidable appearance, but he put up such a good fight with the hold-up gang that it is very doubtful whether they will molest him again.

GUARDSMAN IS KILLED BY MILITARY GUARD

Laredo, Texas, September 19.—Private John Clyne, B company, Second Missouri regiment, was shot and killed last night by a military guard at Dolores, as the result, it is said, of an altercation with the guard. Lieutenant Dellum ordered Clyne's arrest, and Clyne, becoming enraged, leveled his rifle at the lieutenant, whereupon the guard fired, according to military authorities.

Clyne was shot by Corporal Evans, of G company, Second Missouri infantry. All parties concerned are residents of Joplin.

Blacks Put Veto On Lily White Show At Federal Prison

Colored Thespians Refuse to Participate Unless They Are Given Part in Performance to Which Their Numbers Entitle Them.

'Tis a sad, sad story, cell-mates, but there will be no minstrel at federal prison this year.

The whites say they won't stage a black-face show unless the black-face is burnt cork.

The blacks say, "Aw, that's foolish—we niggers got complexions that will save expense."

The subsequent conflict has abolished all minstrel plans, for the colored Thespians of the prison propose to mutiny unless they are given as full sway over the proceedings as the whites.

All of which was well and good, perhaps, until the white prisoners discovered that nine-tenths of the black population of the pen was eager to get in the show. The prison auditorium, to say nothing of the stage, would hardly hold this immense number.

So, in order not to discriminate, the whites planned to use burnt cork instead of natural ebony, with the result that there was rebellion in the ranks of the blacks.

No minstrel unless the darkies were given a chance—and every darky in the pen wanted a chance.

So, because of time and space restrictions, the show project has been abandoned.

PREPARING THE GREEKS FOR ENTRY INTO WAR

Royalist Newspaper Says Bulgarians Must Free Greeks Taken at Kavala.

Athens, September 18.—(Via Paris, September 19.)—The royalist organ Forward will publish tomorrow the following article in a pro-war campaign intended to prepare the opinion of Greeks for the entry of their country into the war. The newspaper demands an immediate explanation and the release of the Greek soldiers made prisoner by the Bulgarians at Kavala, plainly indicating that the alternative will be war.

Speaking of the Greeks made prisoner at Kavala The Forward says:

"Only those are treated as prisoners who surrender to the enemy. We know that Premier Kalogeropoulos has taken steps with Germany for the immediate return of our soldiers with all their effects. If this demand is not at once satisfied, the government must consider the measures to be taken."

King Constantine is said not to be ignorant of the contents of The Forward's article.

HARD BLOWS DEALT TO RUSSIAN FORCES BY TEUTON ARMIES

RUMANIANS LOSE IN TRANSYLVANIA AND IN DOBRUDJA

Berlin Claims New Russo-Rumanian Line in East Rumania Has Been Pierced. Rumanians Also Repulsed in Transylvania.

FIGHTING CONTINUES ON MACEDONIA FRONT

Unofficial Reports Say That the Serbian Forces Are Steadily Advancing, and That the Bulgarians Are Evacuating Monastir.

The war chancellories at Berlin, Sofia and Vienna record victories for the Teutonic allies over the Rumanians in Transylvania and Dobrudja. In southern Transylvania, near Hatzeg, according to Berlin, the invading Rumanians have been repulsed and are being pursued by the Austro-Germans, while in Dobrudja, the new line formed by the Russians south of the Constanza railway and running from the Black sea to the Danube, has been penetrated at some points and several villages captured.

HARD FIGHTING IN MACEDONIA.

In Macedonia hard fighting continues at various points, but with no important changes in positions reported. Two counter attacks by the Bulgarians against the Serbians on the left wing were unsuccessful, according to Paris, while Sofia reports that attacks by Russians, French and Serbian troops on Bulgarian positions around Florina were repulsed, as likewise was an offensive west of Lake Ostrovo. Artillery engagements for the most part are going on along both the British and French sectors of the front.

BEATEN BULGARS ALREADY FLEEING FROM MONASTIR

London, September 19.—An Athens dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that information received there indicates that the Bulgars are beginning the evacuation of Monastir. It is said that the Bulgarian archives are being hastily transported to Uskub.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Saloniki dated Monday says: "The Serbian successes in the Florina region continue. They have captured Krushegrad, eight kilometers, and Neokazi, ten kilometers northwest of Gornichevo, while the Serbian cavalry has reached Rosna and is still advancing."

Serbian troops in Macedonia, after a night of desperate fighting, developed a success yesterday, on the Kaimakcalan range, north of Lake Ostrovo, says a Reuter dispatch from Saloniki today. At 10 o'clock at night they occupied the highest summit of the range, 2,500 meters in height, which the Bulgarians had been ordered to defend to the last man.

Bulgarian counter attacks were completely repulsed, the dispatch adds, and the Serbian offensive is continuing successfully.

COUNTER ATTACKS BY BULGARIANS.

Paris, September 19.—The Bulgarians on the Macedonian front have made two counter-attacks against the Serbians, but gained no success, it was announced officially here today.

The Bulgarians and Germans have not attempted a counter-action against the French troops which captured Florina. There is no change on the Struma front.

The official communication on the progress of operations in Macedonia given out this afternoon says:

"There has been no change on the Struma front. At the foot of Beles mountains Italian troops have engaged Bulgarian forces in spirited combats in the region of Poroj (west of Lake Doiran.)

"On the Serbian front there have been violent artillery exchanges in which each side took part. Two Bulgarian counter-attacks in the sector of Vetrenik were repulsed by the fire of the Serbian cannon.

London, September 19.—"On Sunday night our pickets east of Orljak bridges were attacked by the enemy, who was repulsed," says today's official report of the campaign on the Macedonian front. "The enemy camp at Prosenik was bombarded Sunday by our aircraft, apparently with successful results. There were no developments on the Doiron front."

ALLIES REPULSED, BULGARS REPORT.

Sofia, September 18.—(Via London, September 19.)—In the fighting near Florina on the western end of the Macedonian front, the Bulgarians repulsed all attacks of the entente forces, the war office announced today. The statement follows:

"Yesterday Russian, French and Serbian troops made unsuccessful attacks on our positions around Florina. All the attacks of the enemy were repulsed by counter movements. We also repulsed attacks against Kaimakcalan heights (west of Lake Ostrovo).

"There was the usual artillery and infantry fire in the Moglenica valley.

Along the Stokhod River, in Russia, and Along the Narayuvka River, in Galicia, Notable Successes Are Claimed for the Austro-Germans.

NEARLY 7,000 PRISONERS CAPTURED IN THE DRIVE, AND ALSO MANY GUNS

Petrograd Does Not Admit the Austro-German Victories, But Reports Stubborn Fighting—The Inclement Weather Hinders Operations on the French Front. Austrians Reported Preparing to Evacuate Triest.

Although there is a pause in the violent infantry fighting in the Somme region of France, due to the inclement weather, heavy battles are in progress on the eastern front in Russia and in Galicia.

Along the Stokhod river in Russia the Germans and Austro-Hungarians have taken the offensive against the Russians and, according to Berlin, near Zarecze have crossed the river in pursuit of their retreating foe and have captured 31 officers and 2,511 men and seventeen machine guns. Here four lines of Russian trenches were penetrated by the Teutonic allies, says Vienna.

In Galicia, a counter attack by the forces of the central powers along the Narayuvka river southeast of Lemberg brought a further success to their arms and resulted in the capture of an additional 4,200 men.

In the Ludowa region of the Carpathians the Russians have gained some new positions in the fighting among the snow-clad peaks.

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS OF GROUND.

In France and Belgium there has been violent artillery activity on the Somme and Verdun fronts and around Dixmude. A local German attack on British trenches east of Martinpuich, north of the Somme, was repulsed. Berlin admits the relinquishment to the entente forces of trenches east of Ginchy and near Combles which had been previously demolished by the enemy artillery.

The infantry fighting between the Italians and Austrians on the Carso highlands has noticeably diminished, although the artillery on both sides continues active. A report attributed to reliable diplomatic sources in Athens is to the effect that the Austrians are preparing to evacuate Trieste.

RUSSIANS DRIVEN OVER THE STOKHOD BY GERMAN TROOPS

Berlin, September 19.—(Via London.) Taking the offensive on the Stokhod river the Germans yesterday stormed a strong Russian bridgehead and drove the Russians across the river, the war office announced today. More than 2,500 Russians were captured, as well as 17 machine guns.

The statement referring to the eastern front reads:

"Army group of Prince Leopold: German and Austro-Hungarian troops belonging to the command of General Von Bernhardi, under the leadership of Lieutenant General Clausius, stormed the strongly fortified Russian bridgehead north of Zarecze, on the Stokhod, and pursued the enemy to the eastern bank. Thirty-one officers, 2,511 men

ECONOMY

Buy-right hints for the housewife

The Dividing Line

There is a tensely drawn line between true and false "economy" that governs the wisdom of practical buying.

There can be many a doctor's bill chalked up to false economy in one place or another—one from a misguided ambition to save by an indiscriminate buying of cheaper qualities of meats, for instance; or canned goods; another, a restricted buying of really good qualities. Good food and plenty of it is one of the great salients of true economy. Where, what and how to get the top o' th' market at bottom prices is daily exploited in the market and grocery advertising in The Constitution.

and 17 machine guns fell into our hands.

"Near Perepelniki, between the Sereth and the Stripa, a German patrol captured two officers and eighty men.

"Army group of Archduke Charles Francis: A counter-attack on the Narayuvka (a tributary of the Gnila Lipa) in Galicia, brought us further success. The number of prisoners has been increased to more than 4,200.

"Lively fighting is taking place in the Carpathians, from Smotreo to the region of Kirlibaba. Several strong Russian attacks have been repulsed. The enemy gained small advantages in the Ludowa region.

Vienna, September 19.—(Via London.) The Austrian communication of today says of operations against the Russians:

"Front of Archduke Charles Francis: In Bukowina the Russians continue their attack. On both sides of the Dorna Watra positions the Rumanian army is co-operating with them. The Austro-Hungarians and Germans drove back all storming attacks of the enemy, which at some places were preceded by very strong artillery fire.

"Southeast of Ludoa the enemy penetrated into a small portion of our front. Near Lipnicadolna a German counter attack gained more ground.

"Front of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: On the territory in front of General von Boehm-Ermolli's army there have been successful patrol engagements. On the front of the army groups under General Fath at the bridgehead of Zareeze, south of Stobychva, the Austro-Hungarians and Germans under Lieutenant General Clausius traversed four lines lying one behind the other and captured thirty-one Russian officers and 2,511 men and seventeen machine guns."

TEUTONS REPULSED, RUSSIANS REPORT.

Petrograd, September 19.—(Via London.)—Stubborn fighting is in progress between Russian and Austro-German troops in the region of the River Narayuvka, in Galicia, says the official statement issued today by the Russian war department. All the Teuton attacks, the statement adds, were repelled with heavy losses.

The official statement of today says:

"Western (Russian) front: In the direction of Vladimir-Volynski, in the region of Dobrudja, the enemy launched an attack against one of our advanced platoons, but was repulsed by our machine gun fire. Ten riflemen of our platoon who escaped injury counter attacked under command of the sergeant major, killed some Germans, took one prisoner and put the others to flight. The sergeant major was seriously wounded.

"In the region to the west of Brody our volunteers and patrols surprised in the night an enemy advanced post without firing a shot, and in a bayonet engagement killed twenty men and took prisoer one officer and twelve men.

"In the region of the River Narayuvka stubborn battles are continuing. Here in Sunday's battle the gallant regimental commander, Colonel Gubin, and Lieutenant Colonel Semicheff were killed.

"In the Carpathians, in the region of Shibani, and the Pneva mountain, we carried several heights. The mountains are wrapped in white, for snow is falling.

"Caucasus front: Our advance guard as the result of an engagement with Turks, occupied a wood near the bridge over the Falpanchai, in the vicinity of Karidjan, which is situated north of Hamadan."

GERMANS LAUNCH FIERCE ATTACKS IN THE CHAMPAGNE

Paris, September 19.—The Germans took the offensive in Champagne last night, making five successive attacks on the Russian troops there. Today's official report says that each time they were checked by the Russian machine gun and artillery fire.

The German attack in Champagne was made in the sector between Souain and Somme-Py.

On the Somme front operations were hindered by bad weather.

The communication follows:

"On the Somme front operations were interrupted by the bad weather, but during the night we made some progress east of Berny, taking a number of prisoners.

"A bombardment last night by the enemy upon our positions west and east of the road between Souan aind Somme-Py, reached its height in the evening and was followed by several German attacks, particularly along the Russian sector. Here five successive onslaughts were delivered. Everywhere our curtain of fire and the fire of our machine guns checked the enemy, whose losses were serious. Some prisoners remained in our hands.

"On the left bank of the River Meuse a German surprise attack upon one of our minor posts north of Davocourt, and two counter attacks upon the trenches on the southern slope of Le Mort Homme, occupied by us yesterday, resulted in complete failure.

"West of Pont-a-Mousson a detachment of the enemy which was endeavoring to take possession of our positions north of Fleury, was dispersed by our infantry fire."

Owing to the bad weather, says the official communication issued tonight, nothing important has occurred except violent artillery activity on the Somme and Verdun fronts, and about Dixmude, in Belgium.

The communication says:

"Bad weather has hindered the operations on the greater part of the front. There is nothing to report except considerable artillery activity on both banks of the Somme and on the right bank of the Meuse in the sector of Fleury-Vaux Chapitre."

BAD WEATHER HINDERS BRITISH.

London, September 19.—"Heavy and continuous rain has fallen during the last 24 hours," says today's official account of operations on the Franco-Belgian front. "The general situation is unchanged.

"In the neighborhood of Reichsbourg L'Aouve (northwest of LaBassee) we entered the enemy's trenches at three places, capturing prisoners and machine guns and inflicting many casualties. Our casualties were very slight.

"Since last night's report five more of our aeroplanes have failed to return."

The official statement from general headquarters issued tonight reads:

"The general situation is unchanged. South of the Ancre there was considerable artillery activity throughout the day. A local attack upon our trenches east of Martinpuich was easily repulsed.

"A hostile balloon was brought down by our artillery east of Ransart. In the neighborhood of Hill 60 an enemy ammunition store was exploded by our fire.

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS OF GROUND.

Berlin, September 19.—(Via London.) The Germans yielded further ground on the Somme front and in the Verdun sector, the war office announced today. The statement follows:

"Army group of Prince Rupprecht: In the Somme region, on account of unfavorable weather conditions there were no severe engagements, although the artillery was active at some places. East of Ginchy and before Combles we yielded to the enemy some trenches which had been demolished by artillery. We repulsed partial attacks near Belloy and Vermandovillers.

"Army group of the German Crown Prince, west of the Meuse (Verdun front): An attack on the western slope of Dead Man mill enabled them temporarily to penetrate our trenches."

AUSTRIANS READY FOR EVACUATION OF PORT OF TRIEST

Athens, September 19.—(Via London.) It is stated in the most reliable diplomatic sources here that the Austrians are preparing for the evacuation of Triest.

ITALIANS REPULSED, AUSTRIANS CLAIM.

Vienna, September 19.—(Via London.) The Austrian statement of today in regard to operations against the Italians says:

"Italian theater: Yesterday passed more quietly on the Carso highlands, as the attacking force of the Italian army corps which has been in the recent fighting has noticeably decreased. Isolated enemy attacks were repulsed. During the afternoon the artillery duels were very stubborn for many hours, especially in the southern sectors of the highlands. In this region infantry regiment No. 103 has distinguished itself since the commencement of the fighting by its brave resistance.

"Our troops repulsed several attacks made by weak detachments near Flitsch and on the Fahan ridge.

"Southeastern theater: There is nothing important to report."

RUMANIANS LOSE IN TRANSLYVANIA

In the Vardar valley there was weak artillery fire. At the foot of the Bolaschitza plateau we attacked some Italian advanced detachments near the villages of Manitza, Gorni-Porog and Donli-Porog, capturing five officers and 250 men belonging to the Second Italian regiment and also two machine guns.

"Along the Struma there was insignificant infantry actions between advanced detachments.

"An enemy fleet bombarded the village of Pravishta (22 miles northeast of the mouth of the Struma and about five miles from the coast)."

TEUTONIC FORCES PIERCE NEW LINE OF THE RUMANIANS

Berlin, September 19.—(Via London.) The new line taken up by the reinforced Russian and Rumanian troops in eastern Rumania between the Danube and the Black sea has been penetrated at several points by the Teutonic forces, the war office announced today.

The statement follows:

"Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen: The allied (Teutonic) troops penetrated at several points into the Russian-Rumanian position mentioned in yesterday's report.

The official report from Berlin on Monday said that the Russo-Rumanian forces on the Rachova-Cobadin-Tusla line had received reinforcements. The line held by the Russians and Rumanians parallels the railroad running from Tzernavoda to Constanza on the Black sea coast. The only bridge across the Danube in this region is at Tzernavoda, which is about nine miles up the river from Rachova.

VILLAGES TAKEN BY BULGARIANS.

Sofia, September 18. — (Via London, September 19.)—The Bulgarian war office today issued the following in regard to operations against the Rumanians:

"Rumanian front: Along the Danube nothing important occurred.

"In Dobrudja fighting developed on the line of the villages of Maralui, Arabadji, Kokardja, Kobadin and Tuzfa, and went in our favor. Following a counter attack we occupied the villages of Sotului, Chiol and Vasciul, where we captured five guns and four machine guns.

"On September 15, after a short engagement, we occupied the town of Mangalia (on the Black sea coast), which was evacuated by the population before the arrival of our troops.

"On the coastal front the night was calm."

RUMANIANS LOSE IN TRANSLYVANIA.

Berlin, September 19.—(Via London.) The German war office statement issued today says of the operations against the Rumanians in Transylvania:

"On both sides of Dorna-Watra the Russians and Rumanians suffered heavy losses in vain storming attacks. In Sieberburgen (southern Transylvania) the Rumanians were repulsed southeast of Hatzeg by troops under Lieutenant General Staab. They are being pursued."

Vienna, September 19.—(Via London.) The war office communication issued today says:

"Eastern theater: Rumanian front: Southeast of Hatzeg the Rumanians have been driven back in the direction of Petroseny by way of Merisor. We are in close contact with the enemy in the Gergeny and Kelemen hills."

COUNTIES WILL SEND BOYS TO COMING FAIR

Americus, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Two Sumter county boys will attend the Southeastern fair in Atlanta this fall as the guests of the fair association, according to an announcement of Agricultural Agent J. G. Oliver. The fair is extending the invitation to two boys in each county of the state, and they will be the guests of the fair, even to the extent of furnishing railroad fare.

Oliver will hold an examination in Americus on agricultural subjects in order to select the two boys who will represent Sumter. In order to participate a contribution of $10 is made by each county, and this was given by Editor Cranston Williams, of the Times-Recorder, and the South Georgia Progress.

Tax Rate Increased.

Perry, Ga., September 18.—(Special.) The county commissioners have fixed the rate of taxes for Houston county for this year at $14 per $1,000, which together with state rate, makes a total of $19 per $1,000. Two dollars and a half of this is for school purposes. The rate this year is $2.50 higher than in 1915.

Blood Is Costliest Of All Treasures, Says Crown Prince

Kaiser's Son Says He Strives to Achieve Results With Least Sacrifice — Tries to Keep in Personal Touch With Troops.

Berlin, September 19.—(Via London.) The personal human side of Crown Prince Frederick William is portrayed in an unusual way by Karl Rosner in The Lokal Anzeiger in the course of a description of an auto ride Rosner had with the crown prince recently.

As a long column of soldiers passed the automobile on their way from the front to reserve positions, the crown prince, as far as was possible, greeted each of the soldiers personally. He reminded the correspondent of the time when he had only the Argonne army and said he had made it his business to know each private personally, if possible. Shortly after he received charge of an entire army group the crown princess in Berlin visited a hospital and found one of the prince's old troopers wounded. In conversation with him the crown princess asked if the soldier knew the crown prince, and received the following answer: "Yes, indeed. The crown prince is often with us in the trenches. But if I may be permitted to make a suggestion, Frau Kronprinzessin, tell your husband he ought not to come there."

The crown prince, according to Rosner, followed up the story with the following comment: "My wife sent me the message all right, though it did not do much good. You see, here, with the huge numbers of men that are under me I cannot come into a close personal touch with the individual as I would like to, but I believe that here, too, the men know that each single one of them is a personal factor whom I never forget for a moment. He is a human being, as I am—a part of our German people. That which gives us superiority and strength over others is this feeling on the part of German army leaders, this respect for and ethical estimation of the individual—for when all is said and done we are fighting for the maintenance of Germany and the future of the German blood.

"So it is we prepared each move down to the smallest detail in order that results may be achieved with the least possible sacrifice of the costliest of all treasures—blood."

ATLANTANS DECORATED FOR SERVICE IN WAR

bly September 16," at Westminster Abbey. The letter is dated September 1.

Second Time Honored.

This is not the first honor that Captain Speer has won for his bravery. He has already received "the military cross of honor."

Mr. Speer went to England to visit his son recently when Captain Speer was there on sick leave, having been wounded and later developing typhoid fever.

Mr. Speer's letter states that since the entry of Rumania into the war with the probable entry of Greece on the side of the entente allies, there is not the slightest doubt among the allies of their ultimate victory over the Teutonic powers.

Mr. Speer writes:

"One sees and feels the effect of the war at every turn. Earnestness and grim determination seem to be stamped on the face of everybody, and both ladies and men dress in the simplest and most unostentatious manner. But one and all without exception express their absolute confidence in the success of the allies—since the entry of Rumania and the probable entry of Greece against the Teutons, the British feel even that the end is in sight, and this seems to be the opinion universal now.

"I saw several trains of sick and wounded soldiers arrive the other day at Charing Cross station, the result of the recent great push. It was about the most interesting and touching sight that I ever looked upon. The streets and squares and station were packed and jammed with thousands and tens of thousands of people, mostly ladies. The wounded soldiers were put on stretchers and into ambulances and started at once to the hospitals. They were cheered to the echo.

"The ladies waved handkerchiefs and threw flowers on the stretchers and into the ambulances, and even in the road before the ambulances, until everything seemed literally covered with flowers. You could see that the soldiers were greatly affected, many of them crying and all of them cheered and happy. This reception is the custom after eacn great push, as the wounded reach London. George went through a similar experience when he came from Boulogne."

Mr. Speer will remain in London until his son is ordered back to his regiment, which will probably not be before September 24, and Mr. Speer expects to arrive home early in October.

Seabrook Coming Home.

Decorated with the "Cross of War," and having had war experience enough to last him a lifetime, W. B. Seabrook, of the Lewis-Seabrook company, who has for the last six months been driving an ambulance with the American Red Cross in France, expects to arrive in Atlanta about October 15. Mrs. Seabrook, who has been serving as a nurse in an American Red Cross hospital, will return with him.

A letter received from Mr. Seabrook, "somewhere in France," states that he and Mrs. Seabrook intend to leave France about October 1, and will arrive in Atlanta some fifteen days later.

Mr. Seabrook, who is a well-known Atlanta newspaper and publicity man, left Atlanta April for France, where he joined an American Red Cross ambulance corps as an ambulance driver on the front. He has been thus engaged ever since, and according to letters his Atlanta friends have received from him from time to time, he has had several thrilling experiences. His entire company has been decorated by the French government for bravery on the field incident to its work of succoring the wounded.

Recently, too, Mr. Seabrook spent a short space of time in the trenches with the German trenches only fifty yards away and fighting furiously in progress. Thus far he has escaped physical injury.

Mrs. Seabrook left Atlanta early in June and joined her husband in France June 29, since which time she has been connected with an American ambulance hospital as a nurse, at Neuilly. She will return home with her husband.

The Tire Price You Pay

The Sign of the Goodyear Service Station Dealer

At first glance a definite mileage guarantee seems rather attractive.

But analyze the facts for a moment—and see what it means to you in extra tire cost.

Imagine yourself, if you will, in the position of a tire manufacturer who has decided to increase the sale of his tires by advertising a definite mileage guarantee.

The first thing you would have to take into consideration is that most of the people interested in a mileage guarantee do not want the bother of taking even reasonable care of their tires — they drive their cars helter-skelter without giving their tires a thought.

So their tires usually give out long before they have delivered the guaranteed mileage—and the manufacturer must make good.

To cover the adjustments necessitated by this reckless driving, the manufacturer must provide an "Accident Insurance." This "Accident Insurance" must be paid for — and there is only one place to put the charge — into the cost of each tire.

So you, by insisting on a mileage guarantee, pay the repair bills of the reckless driver.

Goodyear Tires have no definite mileage guarantee.

But Goodyear Tires average more mileage than any other. That is why motorists are buying more Goodyears than any other tire.

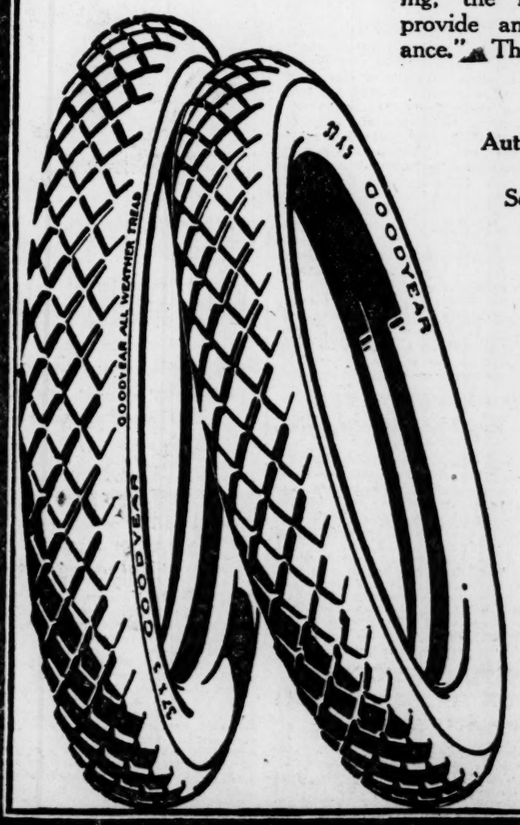

Goodyears are made safe, strong and sturdy — never skimped. So they go farther, last longer and cost you less in the end.

And when you buy a Goodyear Tire your money pays for your tire only — not the manufacturer's insurance on the tires careless drivers buy.

Buy your tires from the Goodyear Service Stations in Atlanta, listed below. They always have your size in stock and are trained to help you get the maximum amount of mileage at the lowest possible cost.

WILSON TO MAKE NO CAMPAIGN TOUR

President Indignant Over Stories That He Has Changed His Plans Because of Speeches by Hughes.

Long Branch, N. J., September 19.—President Wilson announced tonight that he has no intention of making a campaign tour, but that he will carry out plans already tentatively made for several speeches on public questions before non-partisan organizations. This announcement followed a conference between Mr. Wilson and Vance McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee.

Both the president and Mr. McCormick expressed indignation over stories printed today to the effect that as a result of uneasiness over the republican campaign Mr. Wilson had changed his plans and would stump the country.

Chairman McCormick discussed with the president many invitations received from different parts of the country urging Mr. Wilson to make speeches, but afterward it was said officially that the places and dates had not been decided upon.

Secretary Tumulty authorized the following statement:

"The president has no intention of making any campaign tour. He does not intend to change the program already agreed upon by those in charge of his campaign to accept invitations from non-partisan organizations to discuss political questions."

In addition to the speeches in different parts of the country, the president plans to make addresses on the porch of Shadow Lawn to delegations from various states who will call upon him. The first of these speeches will be made Saturday afternoon to a delegation of business men, with whom Mr. Wilson will discuss the record of business legislation made by his administration.

Many Invitations for Wilson.

Chairman McCormick arrived here late today with a portfolio filled with letters from democratic leaders, and invitations from political and non-political organizations. He urged that as many as possible be accepted. He also told the president of his recent trip to Indianapolis and the middle west.

With Chairman McCormick the president planned the general trend of his addresses. In them he will avoid personalities and confine himself strictly to pressing public questions. Among other things he will discuss the settlement of the recently-threatened railroad strike, which Charles E. Hughes has made an issue in the campaign. Mr. McCormick will continue the planning of Mr. Wilson's campaign at further conferences to be held here at least once a week.

The president displayed his intention of taking an active personal interest in his campaign. From now on, administration officials said, the democrats will push the campaign as vigorously as possible. Plans are already being made for sending several cabinet members into the middle west and all doubtful states, to recite the record of the president and the democratic congress.

The president met Mr. McCormick at the railroad station here within a short time after Mr. and Mrs. Wilson returned from Columbia, S. C., where they attended the funeral of the president's sister. Mr. McCormick remained at Shadow Lawn over night. Early returns from the New York primaries were telephoned to Shadow Lawn tonight.

To Speak to Grain Dealers.

Preparation of the speech the president will deliver next Monday at Baltimore before the convention of the National Grain Dealers' association has been begun. In it Mr. Wilson will refer particularly to the rural credits bill passed by congress.

Among the messages received by Mr. Wilson today was one from Representative Doremus, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, expressing confidence over the political outlook from a democratic standpoint.

Mr. McCormick denied emphatically tonight reports that democratic leaders are alarmed over the political situation. He said that during his middle western trip he found strong democratic sentiment. He predicted that within a few days the democratic campaign will be in full swing and that the republicans will be on the defensive.

In addition to discussing politics with Mr. McCormick, the president today gave time to selecting members of the tariff commission, the shipping board, the board created by the eight-hour law for railroad employes, and the board to carry out the provisions of the workingmen's compensation law. He is expected to name some of them within a few days.

PERJURY IS CHARGED IN FLORIDA CONTEST

Man Who Swore Gubernatorial Ballots Were Tampered With Is Arrested.

Tallahassee, Fla., September 19.—The sensation of this morning in the Catts-Knott gubernatorial contest proceedings was the arrest last night of J. C. Barton, of Hamilton county, who testified yesterday afternoon that on the night of June 17 he had seen W. S. Murrow and M. T. Hunter in the courthouse at Jasper with ballots and boxes, making changes, as he believed, in the vote of June 6. Murrow is auditor of county finances, employed by the state comptroller. Hunter is clerk of court of Hamilton county.

Neither Mr. Knott nor his attorneys are connected with the arrest of Barton, the warrant having been sworn out by Murrow and Hunter. The charge on which Barton was arrested is perjury. He was released on $500 bond, made returnable before county judge here next Saturday. Mr. Knowles, who was called to corroborate the testimony of Barton, is not molested with him by the warrant charging perjury, for Knowles swore that he did not know whether they were ballots and boxes Murrow and Hunter were working on or not, and besides he contradicted Barton as to the date on which they passed the courthouse and saw these men in there.

The morning session of court was confined to examining witnesses from Hamilton county. The inspectors and clerk of precinct seven testified that when the ballots of that precinct were recounted their attention was attracted to pencil marks on some of them which they said they did not remember seeing during the original count of the ballots.

At 2:45 o'clock this afternoon the supreme court announced that no fraud had been found in Hamilton county and ballot boxes had not been entered. The Knott counsel are now conferring as to advisability of rebutting Catts' testimony in Madison county or simply leaving it to the court to decide.

Cordele Rate Lowered.

Cordele, Ga., September 19.—General satisfaction has been created by the action of the city council of Cordele in lowering the tax rate at their last meeting from $15 on the thousand to $13.33 1-3. The rate was decreased upon the recommendation of Alderman J. Nelse King, chairman of the finance committee.

CONFEDERATE DRUM PRESENTED TO VIRGINIA

Richmond, Va., September 19.—North and south shook hands today in the white house of the confederacy, now a museum of the Confederate Memorial Literary society, when presentation was made by the Worcester Continentals of a confederate drum picked up on a battlefield near Winchester and retained in possession of the Continentals from then until today.

Colonel Coes, of the Continentals, made the speech presenting the ancient drum and W. W. Scott, state law librarian, a veteran of the Thirteenth Virginia regiment, which lost the drum, accepted it on behalf of the memorial society. Lieutenant Governor J. Taylor Ellyson presided at the exercises, which were of the most harmonious and cordial character.

Crowds lined the streets as the Continentals, escorted by the two battalions of militia remaining in the mobilization camp, marched to the Davis mansion with the drum and cheered the "yankees" heartily.

Eight-Hour Day in Canal Zone.

Washington, September 19.—An eight-hour day for train crews and switch engine crews in the Panama canal zone has been established by Governor Goethals by executive order. Exception is made in cases of emergency, when permission for over-time must be obtained from zone authorities.

TWO SOLDIER SUSPECTS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Milledgeville, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—Two soldiers from Camp Harris, who are said to have cut a chauffeur's throat in Macon a few nights ago, were captured here, yesterday, by Corporal Dick Caldwell, of the Chatham artillery. The prisoners had made their escape in a Dodge automobile. They were carried to Macon in an automobile in charge of three guards from Camp Harris.

Caldwell declined to discuss the capture in any manner, saying that any report he had to make would be to headquarters.

NEGRO FARMERS PLAN BOLL WEEVIL FIGHT

Americus, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The fight on the boll weevil in Sumter county is being extended to the negroes, and Agricultural Agent J. G. Oliver has announced that he will hold two meetings in separate parts of the county for the colored farmers. He is now rounding out the last meetings of a long schedule held through the county among the white farmers and business men.

The negroes have requested the meeting, and they will be advised of the plans for fighting the boll weevil.

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacts are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kamnia tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamnia tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet.

Anti-kamnia tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.

ALL KINDS OF MEN FROM ENDS OF EARTH

Took Part in Great British Drive of September 15 on Somme—Many Americans in Canadian Contingent. Graphic Story of Battle.

British Front, in France, September 18.—(Via London, September 19.)—The most dramatic and picturesque battle of the British army in its two years in France was fought on September 15. Here is the story of how all kinds of men from the ends of the earth took part:

In the same dressing station this week the correspondent of The Associated Press has seen Canadians, New Zealanders, English, Scotch, Irish, New Foundlanders and Americans. These were some of men of many countries who took part in the now historic battle, and with them there went into action those armored motor cars, called "tanks," which are to the credit of a quiet officer of engineers. It was the "tanks" that completed the wonderful business of this battle.

Today when the correspondent was calling on a Canadian brigadier it was in a "tank" called "the cordon rouge" looking like a pre-historic monster in a skin of modern armor and with engines inside which took him across the field of shell craters, weaving its way with pythonic adaptability by all irregularities up to the door of the brigadier's dugout. The skipper alighted and with phlegmatic drawl announced that he reported for further orders. The brigadier laughingly bade him not to start the brute down the stairs of the dugout but move it to one side and wait. So the "tank" ambled with the bulky leisure of a hippopotamus over some more shell craters to a place where it would be out of the way.

Americans Took Part in Battle.

Then the correspondent went over to the ground which the Canadians had taken up to the edge of the village of Courcelette. Later they stormed the village. He met Canadians who came from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. But when he asked some of them what part of Canada they hailed from they replied: "The same country as you do—the United States."

There were men with the accents of Missouri and New England.

"We got into a big show, all right," said the Americans, "and that is what we came here for." These men who had rushed to the attack of the ridges of the Somme against machine gun fire and shells carried themselves by all accounts in a manner worthy of the traditions of the civil war. It was the Canadians' first offensive on any big scale. This rainy day one saw battalions of them marching out from the trenches they had won and other battalions marching in. Those fresh from the fight were plastered with mud. They had a hundred stories to tell, while the rain dripped from their tarpaulins, of how the "byng boys" had made good. The Canadians are known as the "byng boys" after the name of their corps commander, General Sir Julian Byng.

General Byng grasped the idea that the Canadians have initiative. Just there is the essential of the universally admitted brilliant stroke which the Canadians dealt when it came their turn to play their part in the colossal plan of the Somme offensive. In other words, General Byng understood that given a goal, the men of North America would go to it with all there was in them to take a pinch-hit chance.

The correspondent went over the ground today where they went to it and saw where they stuck in trenches under shell fire which they had gained after their second charge and which are not in the original plan. The night before the battle the staff officer in charge of that branch of the front showed the correspondent the Canadian objective.

No Home Run Expected.

No home run was expected from them, but only a sacrfice fly, to use baseball language, but they made a home run and brought in all the men on the bases. They gained their first objective in an uninterrupted dash, absolutely on time. There was the trench which the "Byng boys" held on the morning of the 15th, as the correspondent say it today. Behind it and ahead of it shell craters were so thick that you could step from one to another. General Byng decided, despite the complicated time table methods of a modern offensive, that he could go further. The commanders of the British corps of all kinds made the same decision. So they worked in conjunction.

"Confound cost and everything else," said the Canadians. When the word was given they started for Courcelette, which they were ordered to take. Now this village had been "less crumpled" than any yet captured. There were some battered rafters of roofs still in position. That is Courcelette had had less hammering by preparatory shell fire. Through these streets to their new objective, marked on their map, went those fighters of the new world, including men from as far south as New Orleans as well as men from Nova Scotia and Vancouver. They were determined to get there, and they got there.

When no word came back for some time the staff began to wonder if the Canadians were in trouble. But presently they got word that the charge had swept beyond the village and that the Canadians had been so busy digging in they had not had time to send news.

Among those who "made good" was a battalion of French Canadians. "We had luck with us and we forced it," one of the Canadians said. "It was up to us to do so, that's all." At one place in the village the attacks were held up for a time by a strongly fortified post which bristled with machine guns. "Well," as one officer said, "we did not have to tell the man what to do. They stalked that strong point, man to man, moving around it and got it."

Among the men marching back from the front line after relief was a tall soldier with high cheekbones, ebony hair and expressionless features. He was an American of the Sioux type.

"The German is some fighter," said one Canadian to conclude the story, "and he has been learning the game for a long time, but on this occasion we had him going."

Only One of Many Chapters.

But the exploit of the Canadians is only one of the many chapters which may be told now of what the soldiers humorously called "the 'tank' offensive." There was a London division, comprising representatives of all classes of the great city's life, who were told that they must reach their objective in a given time. In front of them in High wood was a fastness of machine guns which neither the artillery nor the trench mortars had been able to reduce. However, it was the business of the Londoners to be on time in reaching the given point on the map and to hold on until further notice.

"These orders were all very simple and direct," said one of the Londoners afterward, "but those Germans in their fort knew that it was a life and death fight and all that was required of them was to put their fingers on the triggers of their machine guns when we charged. We left it to the blooming tank. We had to take chances of those machine guns shooting into our back if the tank could not do the job. But orders were orders, as we were taught when we left our happy homes to go soldiering in France, and we had to reach that point on the map. We reached it and the tanks wiped out the machine guns."

Then there were the New Zealanders. They are known from the Australians by the colored bands around their campaign hats.

"Proud, 'aughty lot to look at?" said a London cockney. "You might think they were all lords, but when you get to know them they're human and most generous with their 'igh pay."

The New Zealanders also had their orders of the "go there and stay there" kind. They went, and later on the situation was such they were warned that they must try and hold against a heavy counter attack. Out of the clouds of shell smoke it was as difficult to glean information as it would be to learn what a man in the next block was doing in an earthquake. Finally word came back: "We have stopped counter attack and taken some more ground and are going to hold it."

This cheered the staff as much as the sight of the columns of German prisoners filing by. It particularly cheered them, as at some points things were not going so well.

The battalions whose luck failed them were driven back by the cunningly arranged fire of machine guns in strong points which neither the artillery nor tanks could conquer.

British Guards Go In.

There was a spectacular moment when, some time after the battle had opened, word ran down the line that the "guards were going in." The guards are the crack regiments of the British regular army and are steeped in the old aristocratic traditions. When they come to the offensive they must show others the way through, although the body of a peer's son is no less vulnerable to bullets than that of a cockney.

When they went "over the lid," as the slang phrase is for mounting the parapet of the trench for a charge it was the supreme moment for the guards. They were to reach a certain objective in so many minutes and then wait. But they did not wait. They took their second objective in the same rush.

It was no matter if the colonel of one of the regiments stood up on a hillock and blew the silver hunting horn he carried in order to halt them. The guards were off and they meant to stretch a two-base hit into a three-bagger, machine fire notwithstanding, or how else could they be the guards? When they reached their final objective where they were to have it out with the Germans in as hard fighting as ever this war has known, an Irishman in the Irish Guards exclaimed: "Is this as far as they told us to go? Sure, I haven't got my second wind yet."

More than once, facing counter attacks, the British have gone out to meet the German charges in the open with the bayonet and the Germans have done the same. All past records in ferocity of fighting seemed to have been surpassed during the latest British advance. So freely was life given and so wonderful was the courage shown on both sides that the whole thing seems unreal to the spectator. In today's mist and rain the ceaseless pound of guns goes on as fresh troops march up to the front from the rear to take their place in the next battle of this tremendous offensive.

SINKING OF LUSITANIA BEFORE U. S. COURTS

New York, September 19.—Upon a petition of the Cunard Steamship company, limited, in which the torpedoing of the steamship Lusitania was described as the "act of a public enemy," and "in violation of the laws of nations and laws and usages of war as recognized by civilized nations," the federal district court here today appointed a commissioner to take proofs and report his conclusions as to the company's interest in the wreck strippings for purposes of limitation of liability.

An injunction also was granted by the court restraining further prosecutions of suits for damage amounting to $5,883,479, or "legal proceedings of any nature or description whatsoever in respect of any claim arising out of, or in connection with the loss of the Lusitania," until final hearing and determination of the limitation of the liability proceeding.

The Cunard company represented to the court that the wreck strippings, consisting of life boats and rafts and the freight and passage money of the Lusitania, do not exceed $91,296. The court accepted as an ad interim stipulation a bond for $100,000 to cover the company's appraised interest in the ill-fated vessel. The stipulation, it was explained, was subject to revision after the report of the newly-appointed commissioner. Proof of all claims for damages, it was announced, must be presented to the commissioner on or before December 26, next.

FRENCH DEPUTIES HOWL AT ADVOCATE OF PEACE

And Cheer Premier Briand, Who Says France Will Fight Until Victory Is Won.

Paris, September 19.—A delicate question was raised in the chamber of deputies today by M. Roux-Costadau, who asked Premier Briand to see to it that there was not only unity of action on all fronts by the entente allies, but also proportionate effectiveness.

Protests were made from various parts of the chamber against any discussion on the subject of the proportionate number of troops engaged from the different entente countries. Mr. Roux-Costadau, nevertheless, persisted, saying that France could not expect to give the blood of all her children, and that the allies should make the necessary sacrifices.

Premier Briand in reply objected to the question and declared that it was unjust to throw doubt on the efforts of the allies in such a sacred cause. England, he said, had never said "no" to any demand for aid. Italy had made the utmost efforts she possibly could, considering the difficultie of the mountainous theater of war in which she was operating. Russia had sent to France her soldiers from across the world.

"Tomorrow," continued the premier, "you will see this joint action expanding still more."

Replying to another speaker, M. Brizon, representing the department in the old province of Bourbonnais, who attempted to calculate the economic value of the men who had fallen in the war, Premier Briand said:

"M. Brizon has suggested that it is possible for the president of the council to bring the war to an end. That is the idea he is trying to propagate and it is my duty to destroy this propaganda. Your country, Monsieur Brizon, has a splendid past, which should make you love her. This country was seized by the throat, after her assailant had passed over the bleeding body of Belgium. To this country, which has the honor to be the champion of right and which has poured out its blood in floods, you say: 'Stop the war; negotiate peace.'"

At this point, the members of the chamber arose, cheering M. Briand and howling down M. Brizon.

Resuming, the premier said: "You little know France, Monsieur Brizon, if you think she can sell her blood. What peace would you make for this country at this moment? If peace were made now it would be a peace of war and a menace to future generations.

"The treacherous blow Germany tried to strike failed, but would be tried afresh. For forty-four years your country worked with a wound in her side. There already gleams on her forehead the aureole of prestige and glory. If you wish the ideas of justice to triumph, pray ardently for victory. Otherwise there would be a peace humiliating and dishonorable and such as no Frenchman could desire."

The chamber, which was aroused to the utmost enthusiasm by the premier's eloquence, voted that the speech should be printed and displayed on all public buildings throughout France.

BAGGASSE TO BE USED IN MAKING PRINT PAPER

New Iberia, La., September 19.—The secretary of the local chamber of commerce announced today that arrangements had been completed for early construction of a factory here for the manufacture of paper from baggasse. Eastern capitalists are interested in the venture, it was stated. Baggasse is refuse sugar cane stalks from which the juice has been ground, and until recently has been burned or destroyed as useless at the mills. New Iberia is in the Louisiana cane growing section.

BANK DIRECTORS APPLY UNDER CLAYTON ACT

Washington, September 19.—Out of a total of 679 applying, 556 directors of national banks throughout the country have been authorized by the federal reserve board to serve as directors of other banking institutions under the modified Clayton act, which now permits the board to extend such authorization where the national bank and private or state institution affected are not in "substantial competition."

Seventy-seven applications were received from the Richmond reserve districts, and nine from the Atlanta district of the former 49 were granted and 28 denied, and of the latter eight were granted and one denied.

In a statement tonight making this announcement and defining "substantial competition," the board said:

"The board has considered each case on its own merits, but has taken the general position that the mere purchase by two banks of commercial paper in the open market, or the making of time or demand loans on collateral securities having a wide market, or the purchasing of such securities need not necessarily or invariably be considered as indicating "substantial competition" within the meaning of the Kern amendment. It is, however, the view of the board that "substantial competition" must be held to exist in cases where the resources of the banks are of such magnitude, or of such character that the ability of the banks jointly to grant or to withhold credit, or otherwise to influence the conditions under which credit may be obtained, might constitute them a dominant factor in the general loan market, even though the character of the deposits carried by the institutions in question might be quite different."

SUFFERED FIFTEEN YEARS; NOW WELL AND STRONG AGAIN

"My Wife Gained Around 15 Pounds and Is in Better Health Than in Years," Says Churchill.

"My wife has gained around fifteen pounds on three bottles of Tanlac and her health is better now than it's been in many years," said S. R. Churchill, a well-known painter, living near Battle Hill, on R. F. D. No. 7, while in Jacobs' Pharmacy last Monday.

"For fifteen years," continued Mr. Churchill, "my wife has been taking medicines of different kinds trying to get over her troubles, but in place of getting better she kept on getting worse. Her sleep wasn't sound and didn't give her any rest and she would be as tired in the mornings as when she lay down at night. She had no appetite at all scarcely, and the little she would eat made gas on her stomach and kept her feeling bad most all the time. Her food didn't seem to do her much good and she lost weight and got to be very thin and weak and suffered with headache a lot of the time. She would do her housework, but she wasn't able, and it always made her very nervous.

"Yes, sir, my wife was in bad shape when she began taking Tanlac, but she's in fine shape now and we are certainly grateful for what Tanlac has done for her. All her nervousness and weakness have disappeared and her headaches are broken up. She has a splendid appetite and eats anything she wants and nothing hurts her in the least. It's a fact, she's stronger and in better health than she's been in fifteen years and we owe it all to Tanlac. It has done the work and if I couldn't recommend it I wouldn't be buying more of it now."

BALD ROTARIANS MAKE CLUB MEETING LIVELY

Members Guess Names and Addresses From Inspection of Back Heads.

Fifteen bald-headed Rotarians furnished the fun at the Rotary lunch held yesterday at noon in the Kimball hotel. They were aided and abetted in their merriment by a huge lump of ice.

The bald-headed feature of the luncheon consisted in seating the fifteen victims with their backs turned and with numbers pinned on their coats. The other members of the club were then required to give their names and business with nicknames and personal addresses. It was rather hard, but, as some of the members were expert at pocket billiards, they managed to go through the fun very well.

Following this stunt, a ton of ice was raffled to the club with the proceeds to be devoted to charity and the winner forced to take the ice home. Some reluctance toward winning the prize was exhibited, but the winner was preparing to get a dray when he was told it was all a joke.

The club did some real serious things besides their fun making. They installed the new secretary, Jack Lewis, appointed a plaza committee and heard an interesting address from W. A. Kell, dean of the Tech School of Commerce, on "Building Better Business Men."

The plaza committee is composed of Paul Norcross, Charles D. Atkinson, Preston S. Arkwright, Asa G. Candler, Jr., and James R. Holliday. The committee will confer at an early date and report to the club.

PRAYING AT GRAVE OF ONE OF FLOCK, NEGRO DROPS DEAD

Cordele, Ga., September 19.—While he was conducting the funeral services over the body of Tildy Baldwin, a negro woman, Rev. Mitchell Kelly, one of the best-known and most-liked of Cordele darkies, fell dead from heart failure. Prayer was being held when the colored pastor was stricken. It was a rather strange coincidence that Kelly had stated several times in the presence of his congregation that he had a presentment that he would die in his church.

GEORGIA CHAMBER READY FOR MEETING

The Chamber of Commerce Opens Headquarters at Macon — Delegates Begin Arriving for Third Annual Convention.

Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) Headquarters of the third annual meeting of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce were opened in the lobby of the Dempsey hotel today, with Edward Young Clarke, secretary, manager of the organization, and Louis N. Geldert, editor of the book "Facts About Georgia," in charge of same. The Dempsey hotel allotted free use of the space to the organization, and the J. W. Burke company supplied, free of charge, necessary furniture.

Several delegates to the convention have already arrived and indications point to the most notable meeting the chamber has ever held. The first thing on the program Wednesday, the day before the regular meeting of the organization, is a meeting of the commercial secretaries of the state, which will be presided over by F. Lombard Brinson, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers association, of Augusta. Among the other prominent secretaries of the state who will be in attendance are: Thomas Purse, of Savannah; Lester C. Busch, of Thomasville; Leland J. Henderson, of Columbus; J. H. Mock, of Albany; T. E. Grafton, of Rome; A. B. Mobley, of Monroe; W. H. C. Johnson, of Macon; Nelson Shipp, of Sandersville, and about forty others from different parts of the state.

Committees Plan Meeting.

The afternoon of Wednesday will be devoted to various committee meetings, and many committee chairmen will reach Macon early Wednesday to begin the preparation of their reports. Several of the larger committees of the organization have called special advance meetings of the whole committee to meet in the Dempsey committee rooms on Wednesday afternoon.

President and Mrs. Charles J. Haden will leave Atlanta Wednesday morning for Macon, going by auto and stopping at Griffin and Jackson en route. They expect to reach Macon about 5 p. m. Wednesday afternoon.

Among the prominent citizens of Georgia who will be on hand at the meeting are: W. B. Hunter, of Cornelia, president of the Georgia Fruit exchange, who is the original "Sunny Jim" of breakfast food fame, but who left it all to become a citizen of Georgia. He will speak at the afternoon session on the subject of better market facilities for crops other than cotton. R. C. Berckmans, of Augusta, president of the Georgia Horticultural society, will speak in the afternoon on the subject of horticulture in Georgia.

Senator John D. Walker, of Sparta, will deliver a short address on a timely topic. Senators L. R. Akin, of Brunswick, and John W. Callahan, of Bainbridge, will both be on hand in the interest of the boll weevil battle which the Georgia Chamber of Commerce plans to engage in this fall.

Loyless Will Speak.

Hon. Thomas W. Loyless, editor of The Augusta Chronicle, will deliver an address in the afternoon on the subject of the federal nitrate plant which it is desired to locate in Georgia. President Haden will speak on the subject of the federal land bank, as will L. P. Hillyer, and delegates interested in the land bank from South Carolina and Florida will be on hand.

In addition to the above will be such men as W. A. Winburn, president of the Central of Georgia, of Savannah; Crawford Wheatley, of Americus; R. D. Cole, of Newnan; Judge Moses Wright, Dr. George B. Smith and Wright Willingham, of Rome; Alex K. Sessoms, of Waycross; J. C. McAuliffe, of Augusta, and about 200 other citizens of the state equally as prominent as those above named.

An effort will be made to finish up all business of the session at the close of the afternoon session on Thursday, but if there is any left over unfinished a night session Thursday night will be held.

Two performances daily. Keith Vaudeville, Forsyth.

DISTRICT CONVENTION MEETS IN ALBANY

Park Is Notified of Re-election. Callahan Heads Executive Committee.

Albany, Ga., September 19.—The Second Congressional district convention, the first to be held in the district in many years, met here at noon today, with a representative attendance from each of the twelve counties.

J. W. Callahan, mayor of Bainbridge, and state senator, was named temporary chairman of the new executive committee and will serve until the committee can meet and name its own chairman. It is anticipated that the committee will elect Mr. Callahan, who succeeds H. M. McIntosh, of Albany. Mr. McIntosh declined re-election as a member of the committee. It is the third time the chairmanship has left Albany in a third of a century.

Congressman Park was called before the convention after the primary returns had been consolidated and the result declared. He was given an ovation, and made a short speech in which his deep appreciation of his recent splendid indorsement was feelingly expressed.

Burden Passed to Public.

"We may pause to ask what is the significance of this reference to 'obstacle of law.' The law provides for 'reasonable rates' and an appropriate percentage for fixing of reasonable rates by the interstate commerce commission. Were these proceedings and the provisions of law the 'obstacles of law' to which reference was made? Were they to be overcome, if necessary, to accomplish the desired increase?

"It must be understood that the burden of increased rates is passed on to the public. It necessarily affects a host of activities, agricultural and industrial.

"Increases of wages for selected classes of men on railroads might result in restrictions on a great number of other working men, not only those employed by railroads, but upon those employed in industries throughout the country, if the latter be required to operate under increased transportation charges.

"Again, what becomes of present adjustments and business agreements relating to the men whose services are involved in this bill, if wages are fixed by law in this manner?

"Manifestly we have here an extremely intricate question of rates and outlays. What was the manifest duty of the executive? Plainly to insist that investigation should precede action and that nothing should be yielded to force. It was stated by the executive in his address to congress that 'the matter' had been agitated for more than a year. Why then was it not investigated?

"Time was allowed to run, and then came the surrender that shocked the people throughout the land. Was the 'crisis' unforeseen? Why was it permitted to arise when the administration was forewarned?

For Principle of Arbitration.

"I stand for the principle of arbitration in industrial disputes. Labor, least of all, can afford to have that principle surrendered. It is a civilized method, as opposed to the injurious contests of force, which impoverish labor and imperil the social order.

"It is no answer to say that the awards of arbitration are not always just. The effort should be to improve reasonable methods, not to subvert them.

"To say that fair and prompt arbitration could not have been had in this case is to indict both the administration and the American people."

Mr. Hughes held that there was "no justification of the yielding of principle," and continued:

"When force is proposed and arbitration is refused, there is but one stand to take, and that is to appeal to the judgment of the country to vindicate the processes of reason. Had the executive, when arbitration was declined, at once directed the entire force of public opinion to the demand for the recognition of the principle of arbitration, I have no doubt he would have won.

"Had the executive gone at once to congress for immediate authority to secure prompt and thorough investigation of the stated grievances in advance of action, and had he thus made instant provision for an inquiry so entirely competent as to command the respect of the country, I am satisfied there could have been no strike.

"We have undoubtedly too much legislation without adequate consideration, but there are usually the forms and presumptions of legislative consideration on the merits of proposals. Here even those were absent.

"Within a few hours, on demand of the administration, congress provided a mandatory increase of wages, involving millions of dollars, without any idea whether the increase was or was not justified.

"Mr. Adamson said of his bill: 'It is hasty legislation, I admit, to meet an emergency.' What emergency? The emergency of force to which the administration had capitulated. Mr. Underwood said: 'We have no information on which to legislate and to fix rates of wages which we are going to do and are attempting to do.'

What Grover Cleveland Said.

"Contrast the action of this administration with what Grover Cleveland in 1886 said with respect to labor legislation: 'All legislation on the subject should be calmly and deliberately undertaken, with no purpose of satisfying unreasonable demands or gaining partisan advantage.'

"It is idle to excuse the action taken by the Adamson bill by a request for additional legislation with respect to the future. That legislation was not obtained. We are dealing with what was demanded and actually enacted.

"We have an unjustifiable attempt to use public sentiment with respect to another eight-hour work day in order to justify a bill which does not provide another eight-hour work day, but relates solely to an increase in wages. We have seen the choice of what seemed to be the easier way, which escaped the necessity of a determined stand for principles. We have seen what has appeared to be the consideration of immediate political expediency at the expense of public welfare.

"The issue thus presented is fundamental. The multiplying activities of the government would be intolerable if we did not proceed in accordance with judgment based on an examination of the facts. These processes of reason are the only alternatives to tyranny. We are an alert and intelligent people with every opportunity for ascertaining the facts of any situation. Our problems in the future are likely to be in the main economic problems and they will severely test our capacity, but we shall find solutions if we are open-minded and thorough in our investigations.

"We can stand mistakes in policies if we are sound in method, but we cannot yield reason to the rule of force. That is the path of sure disaster."

Mr. Hughes' speech tonight was his second in Springfield. The first, at the State Fair grounds this afternoon, dealt chiefly with his ideas on protection of American industries, American rights and preparedness.

Mr. Hughes left Springfield at 11 p. m. for Milwaukee. He will deliver six speeches en route.

SHERIFF IS KILLED BY NEGRO LABORER

W. S. Taylor, of Randolph County, Receives a Bullet Through Breast When Attempting Arrest — Posses, With Dogs, Trail Assailant

Cuthbert, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—W. S. Taylor, sheriff of Randolph county, was shot and fatally wounded today by Pete Hudson, a plantation hand, on the plantation of C. S. Harris, in the northern part of the county.

The negro, formerly a resident of Clay county, had been indicted there for discharging firearms on the public highway. A warrant was issued for his arrest and sent to Sheriff Taylor for execution. With two companions, the sheriff went to the cabin in which the negro made his home and commanded that the man throw up his hands. Hudson did so, walking toward the door. When he reached the threshold he dodged behind the door, drew a revolver and fired. The bullet passed through the breast of the sheriff and Taylor died a few moments later.

Companions Open Fire.

The companions of the officer opened fire on the negro, but Hudson managed to escape. Immediately bloodhounds were placed on the trail, a posse was formed, and the search for the negro begun.

The posse, at a late hour Tuesday night, was scouring Patula creek swamp, where, it is believed, the fugitive is hiding.

A number of citizens of Cuthbert, Shellman and other portions of the county, supplemented by parties from Clay, Quitman, Early and Stewart counties and several from Alabama, are scattered over the fields and swamps for miles in the vicinity of the tragedy, which is about ten miles from Cuthbert and near Pataula creek.

Hundreds in Posses.

Several hundred men are engaged in the man-hunt, and as Hudson is known to be a desperate character, he will hardly be captured alive if found. The Randolph county hounds and the track dogs from Clay county were taken to the scene of the killing early this morning.

During the day, at intervals, news that the dogs were following a trail and that it was hoped that Hudson would soon be captured was received here. From negroes in the neighborhood it has been learned that Hudson was wounded slightly in the arm and in the hip. In spite of these handicaps he has been able to elude his pursuers thus far, but last reports were to the effect that the dogs were on a hot trail.

ROME MAY ARRANGE BRIDGE CAR SERVICE

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) A committee of the Rome chamber of commerce has been appointed to make an investigation to ascertain if some arrangement can not be made between the county and the Rome Railway and Light Co., for the operation of cars on the new bridges in the city of Rome, pending the settlement of litigation between the county and car company.

By legislative act, one-third of the cost of the new bridges was to be borne by the railroad company, but the company took the matter to the courts. A decision in the federal district court was favorable to the county, and on appeal the case is now pending in the United States Supreme court, and is set for hearing next month. In the meantime the bridges are nearing completion, and the point at issue is whether the company should be allowed to put its tracks down and operate across them.

Patton-Kirkpatrick.

The marriage of Miss Anna Patton and Mr. Donald Kirkpatrick was a pretty event of last evening, taking place at 8:30 o'clock at the Presbyterian church in Decatur, a large congregation of friends witnessing the ceremony.

Mrs. Bayne Gibson was matron of honor, and Miss Clemmie Patton was maid of honor. Miss Sarah Patton, of Marietta, was bridesmaid, and little Miss Margaret McGuire, flower girl. Mr. James Kirkpatrick was best man and the ushers were Mr. James Patton and Mr. Ray Werner. The bride's father, Dr. J. G. Patton, who gave her in marriage, also performed the impressive ceremony. Miss Jessie Havenkotte, of Valdosta, played the wedding music.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin and tulle. Her veil of tulle was adjusted with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore gowns of white lace and chiffon and carried bouquets of Killarney roses showered with swansonia. The little flower girl was daintily gowned in white and carried a basket filled with pink roses. The bride's mother was handsomely gowned in black silk. The church was artistically decorated with smilax, palms and ferns and against the greenery which banked the altar were silver candlesticks burning white tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick left for a wedding trip east and to Canada and on their return home will be guests of the bride's parents for a short while before going to housekeeping in an apartment in Atlanta.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fletcher Shropshire have issued invitations to a reception celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage on Monday, the second of October, from three until seven o'clock, at 112 Peeples street, Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. Shropshire was Miss Mary Florence Camp.

Opening Exercises At Woodberry Hall.

The Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints church, will open the ninth annual session of Woodberry Hall this morning at nine o'clock, with the chapel service and an address to the girls.

All friends of the school and the former students and alumnae are cordially invited to attend. Last year's graduating class will attend in a body. There is a very large enrollment in all the higher classes of high school and college preparatory courses. The resident pupils are from various southern states, from Kentucky to Florida.

A cordial welcome has already been extended by the College Association of Atlanta to the new members of the faculty, Miss Irene Watson, a graduate in arts of Wellesley, and Miss Charis Hood, of Agnes Scott's A. B. course. Miss Watson has done much sociological work in her home city, and will be an asset in the civic and Christian life of Atlanta.

Miss America Woodberry has returned from Columbia university and Miss Frances Woodberry from a course in voice culture under Madame Renaud, of New York.

Fraternity Women's Luncheon.

The Atlanta Pan-Hellenic, an organization of fraternity women, will hold a luncheon at the Winecoff hotel on Saturday, September 23, at 1 p. m. All members of national sororities are cordially invited. This is the initial meeting of the year and an interesting program has been arranged. The large number of reservations already made assures a responsive interest, and a same green tapestry with design in roses.

The centerpiece for each table is a diminutive green tree in a black flower pot, wreathed with pink roses, and wall pockets in the same black and pink enamel were filled yesterday with the gayest of the early fall flowers.

In all the windows were big baskets of fresh flowers, and there was another domestic touch in the quaint or artistic pieces of old porcelain and china lining the plate racks.

The "green tree" was repeated in palms and bay trees at effective intervals, and the substantial raison d'etre of all the decoration was happily promised in a buffet table near the entrance which was laden with good things to eat—salads, cold meats, and other things ready for the quickest of quick lunches.

A cosy corner provides the use of a telephone, writing materials for the checking up of the shopping list, etc., and comfortable chairs for a "breathing spell" before or after lunch.

Quite as interesting as the outer seeming is the privileged glimpse into the culinary sanctuary—a kitchen of most modern and complete equipment, designed to insure good cooking under the best conditions of sanitation, and with all possible dispatch.

The enterprise is that of Mrs. Smith D. Pickett, and Mrs. Frank Fitten is manager.

Its patronage on the opening day was as representative as it was large.

Pretty New Lunch Room Opened on Whitehall Street

"The Green Tree"—the sound is as hygienic as it is picturesque; and the world and his wife seemed to have gathered for lunch yesterday under its branches.

Everywhere was to be seen its pretty symbolism, and the commercial phase of the new restaurant was entirely submerged in the "party-like" aspect of the whole setting.

Newspaper advertising and word of mouth had made it generally understood before the opening yesterday that the "The Green Tree" was to be a particularly attractive luncheon room in spacious quarters on the sixth floor of Davison-Paxon-Stokes company's department store on Whitehall street, with special view to the service of shoppers from in and out-of-town and business men and women.

Yet the completeness and beauty of the new enterprise had hardly been anticipated.

Against walls of soft green are cretonne hangings again in green, which introduce the necessary contrast of color in a design of pink roses.

Hanging lights have canopy shades in the same pattern, and through the glass tops of the comfortable square tables are revealed table covers in the large and brilliant meeting is anticipated.

The Pan-Hellenic particularly invites all fraternity women to come out and at least learn of the work of the organization, which is one of the leading city Pan-Hellenics in the country, their philanthropic work placing them at the head of the list.

Reservations may be made for the luncheon by phoning the chairman of the committee, Miss Helen Prior, I-383.

Music Study Club.

The Music Study club will hold its first regular meeting of the fall in the Phillips and Crew building at 11 o'clock this morning. All those who are desirous of joining the club are urged to be present at that time, for a full discussion of the season's work will be made, and the new members will have the opportunity of choosing the special work which they may care to assume with the club.

There will be five departments of work for the members, which may be elected as desired. The choral work will be continued, as in the past. Full co-operation will be lent the Southeastern fair chorus, just as the Shakespeare pageant was assisted last spring. A meeting of the chorus will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the club room, and a full attendance is desired.

In addition to the chorus, there will be the fortnightly concerts dealing with special masters by the best of Atlanta's musical talent. A group will be formed for playing a musical game that has great educational features. There will also be a group in sight reading; and in this connection, transcriptions of many of the masterpieces for the full orchestra will be read in ensemble. Finally, there will be the artist course, offered to the public at large, but sponsored by the club, which will require a large amount of work from those interested.

With this extensive program outlined, there will be a busy season ahead for the club. Work will be undertaken immediately in all branches, and for this reason, the president, Mrs. Armond Carroll, is very anxious that there be a full attendance this morning.

For Wedding Party.

Mr. W. W. Orr entertained last evening at the Capital City club for Miss Jeannette Johnson and Mr. Royal Daniel, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., after the church rehearsal for their wedding, which takes place this evening. The guests included the attendants.

Mrs. Spier will entertain at a Japanese bridge party and tea-dance Thursday in compliment to Mrs. J. G. Ball, of Charlotte, the guest of Mrs. John Latham, and for Mrs. F. A. Smith, of Savannah.

Johnson-Daniel.

Greer-Payne.

Americus, Ga., September 19.—A happy climax to the victory of Congressman C. R. Crisp for re-election to the national house was the announcement today of the marriage of John Greer, his secretary, and Miss Zera Payne, of Macon. It was unknown only to his close friends, and his double victory is the cause of many congratulations. Mr. Greer is the son of Judge R. L. Greer, of Oglethorpe, and Miss Payne is admired by many friends in Macon and at Oglethorpe, where she formerly lived.

At Wildwoods.

Mrs. F. G. Hodgson will entertain at a bridge party at her home, Wildwoods, on Clifton road, for the benefit of the Free Kindergartens, on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 26th of this month. The admission will be 50 cents a person and tables can be reserved by those who wish them. Please telephone Ivy 4933 in regard to this as promptly as possible. Mrs. Hodgson will be assisted by Mrs. C. W. Strickler, Mrs. S. T. Barnett and Miss Elizabeth Gregg. All friends of the Free Kindergartens are cordially invited.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. M. J. Sewell, of East Point, entertained at a delightful birthday party, Saturday afternoon, for her little daughter, Thelma.

Games and contests were the features of the afternoon.

Assisting Mrs. Sewell were Mrs. L. V. Donehoo, Mrs. Charlie Cash and Miss Maggie Little. The dining table was pretty in autumn decorations and the centerpiece was the birthday cake, lighted with small candles. There were twenty-six guests.

FORSYTH HEADLINER BUYS A FAIR KEY FOR FANCY VEST

The only "medal" Nat M. Wills ever bought for the medal decorated vest that has long distinguished his tramp make-up took its place last night when the comedian pinned on one of the little blue keys that boost the opening day at the Southeastern fair that starts at Lakewood next month.

The key went on the vest with the promise of Mr. Wills that it was to stay there "as long as that fool vest holds together, and I hope every person in every audience I play before recognizes it as a tribute to Atlanta's enterprise."

Mr. Wills, who headlines the Keith vaudeville bill at the Forsyth this week, was inspired to spend a half dollar of his week's salary when he spied Manager George H. Hickman with the blue emblem pinned to his coat.

"Collecting 'em?" asked the comedian. "I didn't think you'd steal my medal stunt that way."

"Steal nothing," said Hickman. "If you mean half you say about liking Atlanta and boosting the city you'll spend half a dollar for one of these and stick it on that crazy vest of yours. They are selling 'em over at the box office."

"You're on," said Nat, and one of the emblems began a strange trip that will parade it before many thousand pairs of eyes before the opening of the fair.

Adkins, one of Atlanta's most proficient authorities and practitioners in infantile diseases, and who is the chief medical inspector for the Atlanta public schools, last Monday commenced the examination of all of the school children and teachers in the local schools, and yesterday removed his office, as school medical inspector, from the Commercial High school building to 502 Chamber of Commerce building.

Dr. E. L. Norton has been appointed assistant medical inspector, vice Dr. C. H. Paine, who resigned during the school vacation.

Dr. Adkins has a staff consisting of himself, three assistants and four nurses; and he expects to have completed the work of examining all of the pupils and teachers of the Atlanta schools by the holiday vacation period.

GRANT PARK LEOPARD SUCCUMBS TO OLD AGE

The only male leopard at the Grant park zoo, "Dewey," died Tuesday. His death was caused from old age. For some time all his teeth have been gone and in his condition the keepers have been nursing him as if he were a child. His diet has been for some time one of sausage and milk. Dewey was placed in the zoo about twelve years ago with a mate. The mate still survives.

GIVES UP CONCERT STAGE FOR CIRCUS

LILLY LEITZEL,
Coming With Ringling Brothers.

"What will gentle woman not dare to do next?"

This is the question constantly asked by spectators at the Ringling Brothers' circus as they watch dainty Lilly Leitzel turn and twist and perform her astonishing, continuous revolutions while dangling from a single rope suspended in mid-air. One slip of the wrist or turn of the toe would be fatal, but the daring little lady is not afraid.

Lilly, who shamefacedly confesses to nineteen years, is a dimpled little creature weighing scarcely ninety pounds and possessing saucy brown curls which fall in profusion around a pair of dancing eyes. Her home is in Prague, Bohemia, one of the states of the Austro-Hungarian duo monarchy. And her appearance with Ringling Brothers' circus this season is her first experience in a circus arena in America.

Miss Leitzel is an accomplished musician, having studied under some of the master instructors of Europe. She prefers, however, to imperil her life on lofty swinging rings rather than enjoy a career of ease and luxury as a musician or dancer. But away from the great elastic nets and smell of tanbark she sings merrily and plays the different compositions she learned at the Charlotten-Schule in Breslau.

Since the circus opened Miss Leitzel's winsome mannerisms and her back arm twisting and rope climbing have focused attention on her work more than that of any other individual in the rings. The "one hand giant swing," as circus men term her body and arm revolution, is the most difficult feat known to performers. Miss Leitzel will be one of the features of Ringling Brothers' circus when it comes here Monday and Tuesday, October 9 and 10, at Jackson and Old Wheat streets.

MRS. PEARSON TO SING AT OMAHA FESTIVAL

Mrs. Frank Pearson, of Atlanta, leaves Saturday for Omaha, Neb., where she will sing daily for a several weeks' contract with the Hotel Fontenelle, which has the patronage of the most representative social life in Omaha. Her engagement includes the five weeks of that progressive western city's festival season, "Ak-sar-ben," beginning the last week in September.

A leading soprano in Atlanta musical life, Mrs. Pearson has been in demand for occasional engagements in other southern cities, and has been made interesting offers of work in opera in this country and England.

The Second Baptist church, at which Mrs. Pearson has been soloist for a number of years, has expressed its appreciation of her value to that choir by giving her a leave of absence in order that she may accept the temporary offer of Manager J. F. Letton, formerly of the Hotel Ansley, of Atlanta, and now of the Fontenelle, of Omaha.

COLLEGE COURSES IN LIFE INSURANCE LAUDED BY WILLET

St. Louis, September 19.—The introduction of courses in life insurance in colleges was characterized as significant by Hugh M. Willet, of Atlanta, who today made his report to the National Convention of Life Underwriters on the work of committee on education and conservation.

Seventy educational institutions, said Mr. Willet, have courses in life insurance, and hundreds of young men who have taken these courses have been successful life insurance salesmen.

Lawrence Priddy, chairman of the committee on taxation, said in his speech:

"The most serious legislation of the year was the revenue bill passed by congress this month. This bill will change the federal income tax on all life insurance companies from one to two per cent. The amount involved in the increase will be between $300,000 and $400,000."

LITTLE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LICENSES, THINKS YOUNG MAN

Marital and automobile maintenance are on the same plane of expensiveness, and both being luxuries beyond the reach of the pauperized purse, it wasn't such a really bad mistake, after all, when a timid young man went into the state automobile registration office in the capitol and inquired for a marriage license.

He was informed of the true character of the registration office, and directed to the ordinary's office at the court house. With an O-well-little-distinction-between-them air, he departed with apologies.

Edward Galt, Now a Rich Oklahoman, Sees His Old Friends Here

Edward Galt, former Georgian, now a resident of Ardmore, Okla., who has become wealthy in the oil fields, is in the city for a few days with his sister, Miss Florence Galt, who is to enter Lucy Cobb institute this fall. They are guests at the Hotel Ansley. Mr. Galt will be in the city for several days.

MRS. DEANE GOES FREE.

Grandparents Will Not Prosecute Mother for Kidnaping.

Mrs. Sadie Deane, bound over to the grand jury charged with kidnaping, following a sensational commitment trial before Judge T. O. Hathcock, will not be prosecuted by the child's father, Reuben Dean, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Deane, to whom Judge Bell last week restored the custody of the child, it was announced yesterday. No eye-witnesses to the kidnaping are to testify, before the grand jury, though a large number had been subpoenaed by the solicitor's office, according to Mrs. J. W. Deane, the paternal grandmother of little Mildred.

In addition to the Deanes, the eye-witnesses who in previous phases of the case testified that Mrs. Alma Watson detained the child's grandmother at the front door while the mother broke in the back way carrying Mildred off in her arms, included a Mrs. Owens, Mrs. Yancey, Mrs. Coapes and Mrs. Ball. None of these, though subpoenaed Monday, testified at the grand jury hearing, though some of them were ready to testify, they said.

"We do not wish any prosecution of this little woman, and are satisfied with little Mildred being restored to her paternal grandparents," said Leonard J. Grossman, attorney for the successful claimants for the custody of Mildred. J. W. Deane, the grandfather, outlined the facts to the grand jury, and no other witnesses testified.

"We have not considered the prosecution of the mother any more, as her ignorance of the law in a measure excuses her indiscretion. All the paternal grandparents have sought is the welfare of the child," said Mr. Grossman.

"We had her arrested for kidnaping because we were desperate after searching for many days for the child in vain," said Mrs. J. W. Dean, the grandmother. "The juvenile court of Birmingham had appointed us to hold the child for the court. She was bound over by Judge Hathcock on the kidnaping warrant, and then the custody was restored to the paternal grandparents by Judge Bell."

TECH NIGHT SCHOOL EXTENDS REGISTRATION

Since there is room yet for a few more students in Tech Night school which began its fall term on Monday of this week, Dean J. N. G. Nesbit has decided to extend registration through Thursday night, September 21. Although the classes have begun, those who enter by that time will have no trouble in making up the few days' loss of time.

Wireless telegraphy and physics, the two new courses that have been added, are proving popular and attractive, many of the students having taken them up. It is expected the remaining few vacancies will be filled up by the latter part of the week, and a record attendance at the night school is anticipated. Application for admission should be made to Professor Nesbit in the electrical building of Georgia Tech.

JIM HOLLOWELL SEEKS POLICE BOARD PLACE

Jim Hollowell, who was active in the recent city primary for the election of Mayor-elect Candler, has announced his candidacy for the position of police commissioner from the eighth ward. Mr. Hollowell made a large number of friends in the recent race by his fearless speeches and his hard work.

He said last night: "Councilman Inman seems to have the idea that he won't have opposition for this place. I think he has found that he is opposed by a foeman worthy of his steel, I expect to win." He is opposing Councilman Ed Inman, of the eighth ward, whose term as a member of council expires on January 1, 1917.

PRIMARY IN FULTON COST ONLY $1,711

Cost for Whole County Much Less Than That of the City Election.

The subcommittee of the county executive committee on Tuesday completed its expense account for the state primary held on September 12. The total cost of the primary in Fulton county was $1,711.

The items in the account are $745 for managers and clerks, $250 for other officials, $200 for registration lists, $168 for printing, $20 for rent of chairs, lights, etc., $175 for salaries of helpers for the managers and clerks, and $215 for rent of buildings for polling places. Other incidentals bring the total up to the amount named.

The city primary held in August, in which only the city wards, ten in number, were represented, cost the voters and the candidates for office something like $2,300. The county election was conducted with much less expense, notwithstanding the added fact that all of the county districts had to be handled.

The subcommittee is composed of the following: Albert Thomson, chairman; George M. Hope, Albert Howell, Jr., H. F. West, J. O. Cochran and E. D. Thomas.

LIQUOR AND THE MAILS.

Down in Ben Hill county Willis Walker is dead and his brother Jim Walker is in jail, charged with having killed him, after the two had set around a couple of bottles of liquor which they had just secured from the express office.

It is just another of those cases of which almost daily record is made in the news dispatches, proceeding from the same cause: Two quarts of liquor for which the order was solicited by mail, which was ordered by mail, and shipped by express—all by authority of the federal government, and in spite of the state law.

Newspaper advertising no longer concerns or aids the traffic. It is shut out in Georgia by law. It was all right to forbid it; the absence of it is a good thing. And yet how utterly foolish it seems in view of the far more insidious advertising methods which are left open to the liquor dealer!

A two-cent stamp and a personal letter carry a direct appeal to the prospective purchaser and this direct, personal appeal has been used in Georgia since May 1, as never before in the history of the state.

When the federal government decided it was time to close up the Louisiana lottery, it quickly found the way to do it by shutting it out from the mails. It can and does prohibit child labor merely by closing the avenues of interstate traffic to all establishments which employ children within the proscribed age limit.

But as if to assist the liquor dealer in violating state laws, it leaves both avenues—the mails and interstate commerce carriers—wide open to him, and Willis Walker dies at the hands of his brother, while the brother goes to jail.

We are not, in any sense, appealing to morbid sentimentality; we are merely seeking to illustrate a principle. Georgia has adopted a good prohibition law, and the people want to see it enforced. Conditions under it are better, considerably, than they have been heretofore; they would be almost ideal, were it not for federal connivance at violation.

The evidence of this fact is all sufficient. It is apparent in the manner in which liquor shipments have grown. Atlanta started out with some 6,000 shipments a month; these have grown to more than 30,000 a month in three months. The Southern Express company started out merely with a separate office for handling liquor shipments; within less than three months it has been compelled to provide larger warehouse facilities to take care of them.

This has come about through the mail order system. Whites and negroes, men, women and children, are the subjects of direct personal appeal.

The United States government wilfully leaves open to the liquor dealer, for use in violation of state laws, the avenues which it has denied to the lottery and the employer of child labor.

It is directly responsible for the violation of, or perhaps it would be more correct to say the nullification of, the state prohibition law.

In the matter of prohibition enforcement Georgia, and several other states, would be doing admirably were it not for persistent federal nullification.

How long will the federal government permit itself to be placed in this position?

THE STATE CHAMBER MEETING.

Two facts in connection with the third annual meeting of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce to be held Thursday at Macon should not be overlooked.

First, that, in the nature of the business to come before it, it is to be perhaps the most important session the organization has ever held; and, second, that membership in the chamber is not necessary in order for anyone interested in Georgia's development and future prosperity to participate in the business of the meeting, and to enjoy all of the privileges attaching to actual membership save that of voting.

The Georgia Chamber of Commerce has done great work for Georgia. It is working along right and practical lines, and for the state at large, knowing no section, no county, no community, no line of industry and no endeavor above another. It is truly a state chamber of commerce.

Its usefulness and power for good can be limited only by the interest Georgians, and others interested in Georgia's future, take in it and the extent to which they co-operate with it And for this reason it is to be hoped that the Macon meeting Thursday will be attended by citizens from every part of the state. They are more than welcome—they are urged—to attend and give each the benefit of his individual opinion and advice.

Just as our state is worth while, so is the Georgia Chamber of Commerce; and the people of Georgia have it in their power to make both more so by helping. They have the opportunity at this meeting Thursday; even those who may go to Macon upon that day and do nothing more than listen to what is said, will help.

"Let's go!"

A FUNDAMENTAL PROBLEM.

The fact that the three great producing oil and gasoline companies are playing a sort of battledore and shuttlecock game with an Atlanta retail company whose sale price they cannot control—selling them gasoline now and then, and refusing to let them have it when it suits their purposes, in order to punish them for lowering the retail price—has passed beyond the stage of a local question and has assumed the importance of a nation-wide, fundamental problem.

Plainly stated, it is this: Have these wholesale producing companies the right under the law to penalize a retailer because he fixes the retail price to suit himself, or is there sufficient law to prohibit combinations in restraint of trade, which this action undoubtedly is?

The case has been put squarely before the federal trade commission. Has this commission the power and authority to deal with it or not? That is what the public, the consumers of gasoline and other products want to know and are entitled to know.

If the great producing companies have the right not only to fix their wholesale price, but to say also at what price a product shall be sold to the consumer, then all our laws which have been written against combinations in restraint of trade are as worthless as the paper they are written on. With this right still conceded to them, all the progress we think we have made toward corporate control and restraint comes to naught.

On the other hand, if there is still force to this law and it is not exercised, it all comes to the same thing. The federal trade commission might as well never have been created, as to have been set up with no more power than that of investigating. Anybody can investigate; what the people want is somebody to remedy the evil when it has been found and proven.

The attempt to penalize a retail company because it sees fit to retail gasoline somewhat under the established retail price is nothing more nor less than a combination in restraint of trade which is specifically forbidden by the laws of the United States.

Yet no one prosecutes; no one attempts to stop it. The principle is the same regardless of the product; whether it be applied to drugs, gasoline, sugar or anything else.

The law is supposed to have been enacted to benefit the consumer. If the consumer is to receive no benefit from it, why not repeal it?

Under the declaration in the federal law, these companies which attempt to fix the retail price and to penalize retailers who do not conform to it are criminals; yet nobody raises a hand to bring them to book.

We may well ask the why and the wherefore of the existence of the federal trade commission.

If we cannot have enforcement in a flagrant case of this sort which concerns the entire country, we may as well abolish the commission and repeal the law.

At that conference called by the kaiser the question of "Why was the war" shouldn't be overlooked.

Candidate Hughes keeps talking because his party expects something or other of him.

Greece has a cabinet crisis on her hands, but what she needs to do is to get a move on her feet.

If, in addition to having lost a leg, Villa is "without arms," there shouldn't be much danger in him as a fighting proposition.

Noting that Irvin Cobb will stump for Wilson in Kentucky, The Houston Post says: "No objections, but Ty is the man who could bring home the most bacon."

Anyway, they all found it fine weather for the exercise of running for office.

As to the latest women's styles, The Dayton News says that "there's no danger of choking to death in the event one is caught out in the rain and the garments shrink."

Call of New Democracy Caused Henry Morgenthau To Quit Big Business

By George Creel.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—Many people, perhaps, have wondered why it was that Henry Morgenthau left the ranks of Big Business to become ambassador to Turkey, and doubtless they wondered again when he resigned the post, in an hour of glory, to enter upon the drudging duties of chairman of the finance committee of the Woodrow Wilson campaign. I put the question to him squarely.

"I felt the call of religion," he began, "the religion of the new democracy of America, which, if it means anything, means the whole not the part. It means justice, not charity, it means equality of opportunity instead of special privilege. All my life I have believed these things but I had never fought for them. What I did was to decide to fight.

"At the time of my decision I was not entirely clear as to how and where I should make response to my desire for service to real democracy. Woodrow Wilson, appearing at the threshhold of his public career, came as an answer to my uncertainty. I had been observing his course for years.

"I admired him as governor of New Jersey. His gladiatorial contest with political bosses, and the way in which he forced remedial legislation in which he believed, demonstrated that he was not only a scholar with vision and ideals but also an executive with tremendous force. When he became a candidate for president I assisted him in every way I knew."

Chance for Real Work.

"How did you come to take the Turkish post?"

"It looked to me like a chance for real work," he answered simply.

I tried to get him to talk about his experiences in Turkey, for the record of Henry Morgenthau's service to humanity in behalf of wretched Armenia is a great story. He held back from the purely personal and talked of other things. "Well," I said, finally, "why did you resign the post?"

"I found a bigger one. I felt that not only this country but the nations of the world had a vital interest in Woodrow Wilson's re-election, for failure to indorse and vindicate him would be a blow to democracy. To avert such a catastrophe I would have been willing to do the utmost. Raising a campaign fund to beat Wilson is an easy task," he continued. "Millions are to be had for the asking. Raising money to help re-elect Wilson is not so simple. The money must come from the people, not in large amounts but in small sums. It is the people alone that he has served. It is from the people alone that he can ask campaign aid.

"It is a fight as tremendous in the significance of its issues as the American revolution or war against human slavery. Let Wilson be defeated," he declared, "we will not only lose every inch of ground that we have gained, but the democratic movement will receive a most serious reverse, from which it will take years to recover. I consider our success vital, if we are to continue on the high road to a greater democracy, animated by the principle of human justice and inspired by the spirit of progress.

Wilson's Accomplishments.

"Consider the work of Wilson—his accomplishments. Those who charge him with vacillation and cowardice speak words of the veriest folly—stupid, indeed. No American president has ever faced such problems, fraught with the importance of life and death, and no president in our history has ever met his difficulties with greater resolution and decision.

"Let us enumerate a few things that stand out boldly in the marvelous record of his work. The federal reserve act, rural credits, an honest and just tariff act, the child labor law, the workman's compensation act, the Clayton anti-trust law, that bars monopoly and lifts labor out of slavery, the seaman's act, the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption, the various measures for the opening and development of Alaska, the federal trade commission—the supreme court of commerce, the shipping bill, through which the American merchant marine is to recover its old-time prestige, lost through republican neglect; the income tax and inheritance tax laws, the agricultural education act, each a piece of wise legislative achievement opposed by the leaders of the republican minority occasionally aided by misguided democrats, but each measure finally receiving the approval of foresighted men of both parties.

Business Men With Wilson.

"You ask me if business men are against Wilson, and I deny it," said Mr. Morgenthau, with emphasis. "Some business men may be against him—those who have been stripped of privileges they have come to believe were theirs of right. The banker, the merchant, the manufacturer, the tradesmen generally, who pursue their vocations in legitimate lines and do not seek to win their profits by oppressive methods are not against Wilson.

"How about Wilson's foreign policies?"

"What sane American would have them changed? They have kept us at peace while the world is at war; they have strengthened us in honor and justice, while other nations wrangle as to which shall bear the burden of a great shame.

"I saw war. I saw its horrors and its desolation, and I rejoice as an American that we have had a prsident who has been strong enough, steadfast enough to save the United States from a reckless, wanton plunge into the whirlpool of death. There are times when we should fight, but what redress have we had to secure that Wilson has not obtained by peaceful means? He has won each contention with the belligerents of Europe, and in winning has upheld international law and bulwarked civilization.

Dollar Diplomacy Crushed.

"Dollar diplomacy has been crushed by Wilson, just as invisible government has been destroyed. High finance sometimes has imperial dreams. It wants to exploit the natural resources held by weak peoples of undeveloped countries and sometimes seeks to use the state department for making bargains and the army and navy as their collectors. This cannot be done with Woodrow Wilson, and that is why certain people are endeavoring to prevent his re-election.

"The very speeches of the opposition ought to be enough. No one has dared to attack a single Wilson law, or any of the Wilson domestic policies. They hate the latter; they want to repeal most of the laws, but they have not the courage to come out in the open.

"The same is true as to his foreign policies. What has his opponent had to say about them? Would he have filed an official protest against the invasion of Belgium? Would he have severed diplomatic relations after the sinking of the Lusitania? Would he have asked congress to place an embargo on the shipment of munitions? Would he have favored warning Americans off the high seas? Would he have intervened in Mexico? When Admiral Mayo, acting on his own judgment, demanded a salute at Tampico after the arrest of his men by Huerta officials, would Mr. Hughes have backed him up as President Wilson did, or would he have repudiated the admiral?

The Strike Emergency.

"In the railroad strike Wilson faced an emergency in which action and not an abstract argument was demanded. He faced that emergency with his usual courage and fairness. What follows? The country was saved from a catastrophe of almost limitless effect. The eight-hour day standard becomes temporarily effective January 1, an expert commission is to observe its operations for six months and report its findings.

"There!" he finished, sitting down again as if embarrassed at having shown emotion, "you have the reasons why I gave up the post in Turkey and went into the business of asking people for campaign contributions. I know of no greater service to democracy than helping to re-elect Woodrow Wilson.

"It is not alone that he has given us peace and prosperity and social justice. It is not alone that he has overthrown organized greed, thwarted the designs of unscrupulous power, and given a people hope and happiness and self-respect. It is what his defeat will mean.

"Defeat this man and every future president will know that he cannot hope for re-election unless he takes his domestic policies from Wall street and his foreign policies from alien conspirators.

"Defeat this man, and it will serve notice upon the Central and South American republics, as well as Mexico, that the United States has greed behind its professions of friendship.

"Defeat this man, and it will serve notice upon every future congress that it must take its laws from a few powerful groups without regard for the welfare of the people.

"Defeat this man, and it means an end to neutrality, an end to peace and an end to American progress for many dreary years."

Quaint and Picturesque Free Port of Orsova Now Occupied by Rumanians

Washington, September 19.—(Special.)—The National Geographic society's war geography bulletin issued today gives the following information concerning Orsova, the Hungarian frontier city on the Danube recently occupied by Rumanian forces:

"Only a few miles above the Iron Gates, the last defile of the Danube, and about an equal distance below the scenically magnificent Kazan Defile, is the quaint and picturesque free port of Orsova. It is 94 miles east of Belgrade and a 10-hours' voyage from that city on the Danube steamers, which in peace times leave the Serbian capital daily at five in the morning.

"Orsova is a double town. Old Orsova, with a population of about 5,000, clings to the west bank of the Cerna river which here mingles its waters with the Danube. New Orsova, on the west bank, is mainly a Turkish colony, with a population of 3,000. In former times the town was a Turkish fort, but since 1876 it has been in the possession of Austria-Hungary.

"On the outskirts of Orsova, about two miles from the steamboat pier, there is an attractive little park in the midst of which is one of the holiest shrines of the Hungarian people. It is the Kronen Kapelle (Crown Chapel) erected by Emperor Francis Joseph over the spot where Louis Kossuth and his fellow patriots buried the Hungarian crown of St. Stephen and other regalia of the kingdom in 1849.

A Pathetic Story.

"The story of the hiding of the crown is one of the most pathetic chapters in the life of the man who is generally admitted to have been Hungary's greatest orator and most incorruptible patriot. The revolution against Austria (1848-49) having failed, Kossuth and his devoted followers were seeking safety in flight, taking with them the national insignia. As they neared the Turkish frontier their patriotism would not permit them to bear the emblems of national existence beyond the borders of their country, so in secret the regalia was buried, each participant in the act vowing not to reveal the hiding place except with the consent of his associates.

"Some years later, however, after Kossuth had gone to England and thence to the United States, and the cause of Hungarian independence seemed hopelessly lost, the place of hiding of the regalia was revealed to Emperor Francis Joseph, who had the precious articles unearthed and the spot consecrated by the chapel in which is a statue of the Virgin and Child, one of the masterpieces of the Austrian sculptor, Meissner. The chapel is approached by a splendid avenue of tall poplars.

"Another interesting spot in the environs of Orsova is Mehadia, a celebrated 'cure,' also called Herkulesbad, the medicinal value of whose hot springs has been appreciated since Roman times.

Popular With Travelers.

"Orsova is esteemed by travelers as one of the most delightfully restful villages of eastern Europe. A famous woman globe-trotter has paid this appreciative tribute to its charms:

"'There is a certain little town, named Varenna, lying on the brink of the Lake of Como and looking down coquettishly on its own fair image reflected in that pure mirror which used to be my beau ideal of a quiet retreat, for one wearied of the world and its follies; but as soon as I had seen this little, romantic, smiling Orsova, I abandoned my former favorite, feeling that nowhere else had I seen a spot at once so bright and peaceful.'

"The little island of Ada Kaleh, with its Turkish bazar, its attractive little cafes and its low blue-and-green houses, is to be seen a short distance down the river from Orsova. When this one-time fortified stronghold of the Turks passed under the dominion of Austria-Hungary in 1878 the inhabitants are said to have made preparations to return to Turkey, but they were induced to remain upon the promise of the authorities that the sultan would send them each year a shipload of coffee, tobacco and other supplies dear to their hearts and appetites."

Live Stock Exhibit To Break All Records

Officials of the Southeastern Fair association were enthusiastic last night over the report from Kansas City that the American Royal Live Stock show there the week of October 2 had broken all records in the number of entries. The entire exhibit will be brought to Atlanta the week of October 16, making a big feature of the cattle show in connection with the fair.

The show is reported to have the largest exhibit in the world of pure-bred beef cattle of the four leading breeds this year. Last year the entries were far in excess of any former show. This year there are 174 more entries than for 1915.

The Hereford classes have the largest number of entries. There are 413 pedigreed animals in the breeding classes, about fifty more than were entered last year. The Shorthorns are close behind with 389 breeding entries; the Angus with 174, and the Galloways with 33. These breeding classes represent the beef cattle that set the standards for the industry.

In addition to the number mentioned in the breeding classes there are approximately 75 animals, many of them as purely bred as the breeding show stock, which will be exhibited as "fat stock." These are steers and heifers that show to the farmer and public how fat a highly bred beef animal can be made—and how much more profitable so much fat is than in the increase in weight of the old-fashioned range steer.

This great western cattle show will form only a part of the Southeastern fair. R. M. Striplin, secretary, and J. Hall Miller, chairman of the cattle department, are receiving hundreds of entries from the cattle breeders of the south and east.

Patterson Heads Highway Board; Enlarged Powers Are Necessary To Secure Federal Appropriation

The machinery through which the state of Georgia will be in position to receive from the federal government some $2,000,000 for the purpose of constructing highways in this state was perfected yesterday, when the state highways department, created by the last session of the general assembly, was organized in the office of the state prison commission, which body forms the nucleus of the new department.

Judge T. E. Patterson, of the prison commission, was elected chairman of the highway department. Captain Goodloe Yancey, secretary of the prison commission, was chosen secretary.

The remainder of the personnel of the department, by the act of the general assembly, consists of R. E. Davison and E. L. Rainey, of the prison commission; State Geologist S. W. McCallie, Professor C. M. Strahan, head of the engineering department of the University of Georgia, and Professor R. D. Kneale, head of the engineering department of Georgia Tech.

E. W. James, chief of maintenance in the United States office of public roads, was present at the organization meeting, and explained and discussed with the department members the requirements made upon Georgia in order to comply with the federal act and to receive federal aid under this act.

Two Millions for Georgia.

There is available for the state of Georgia under the federal act approximately $2,000,000 to be paid in increasing installments annually throughout five years, the first installment amounting to $134,000 and the last installment amounting to $600,000.

In order to obtain this money from the federal government it will be necessary for the state of Georgia to put up its equivalent in money, labor, material or in any other way in which it desires to bear one-half the cost of road construction with the federal government.

The state of Georgia has three years in which to make itself ready to receive the first installment from the federal government, and it is likely that the legislature will have to enlarge the powers of the Georgia highways department somewhat before it can share fully in the federal fund. The earnestness with which the details of organization and the discussion of the scope of the new department were taken up at the organization meeting, indicates that this department is determined to do the most constructive work possible for the state and, if it does not succeed, it will be through failure of the legislature to make such provisions as will amply finance the commission, give it additional power in the control of the convicts to the end of co-operating with the federal government, and other prerogatives. It was shown at the organization meeting that such powers for the department are absolutely essential, since the federal government will deal directly with the department and not with the counties of the state, through which the construction of roads is now conducted.

Months of Preparation Needed.

It will be months before the highway department shall have worked out the details of its co-operation with the counties and have arrived at a point of state-wide organization which will place it upon a basis where it can propose to the federal government to use any part of the available sum.

It was made clear at the meeting Tuesday that it will probably be found best in building the larger trunk lines of highway across the state to take such highways and place them under the direct supervision of the state department of highways rather than leave them to the counties, so that the best possible co-operation with the federal authorities may be obtained. This is in view of the fact that such highways must be built under the direct supervision of the department and that the department is made responsible for the maintenance of these highways after they are built.

The federal department will have engineers to assist the state and supervise in the construction of such highways.

West Peachtree Property Owner Tells of Indignation Over Paving

In a letter received from J. W. Robinson, 780 West Peachtree street, vice president of the Morris Fertilizer company, The Constitution is highly commended for its news story appearing in last Sunday's issue depicting the deplorable condition of the West Peachtree resurfacing job, and for its subsequent editorial about the same.

The news in the whole matter had to do with the fact that an admittedly inferior piece of work was done, over the protests of the united citizens immediately concerned, by the city and county, and that, despite the inferiority of the work, the abutting property owners were served with notice that unless their respective assessments for it should be paid by September 20 legal steps would be taken by the city, looking to collection. Rather than launch upon a long-drawn-out court fight, the people elected to—as some of them expressed it—"stand and deliver."

Mr. Robinson's letter to The Constitution follows:

Editor Constitution: I see that you have an editorial on the condition of the repaving of West Peachtree street, from the junction of Sixth street to the northern end which intersects Peachtree. Your remarks are very timely and I trust they will be of great benefit to the community.

In the above connection I herewith hand you a carbon copy of a letter written to Messrs. Reynolds and Inman, councilmen of the eighth ward. Every little helps, and if you so desire you may publish this letter in your paper, as some other unfortunates may be saved thereby from the horrible fate that has befallen the West Peachtree people.

There is no portion of the entire work of the city of Atlanta needing a greater change than the street work; one realizes this to an alarming extent after going away to other cities and upon returning seeing the condition and class of streets that are put down in Atlanta.

J. W. ROBINSON,
Vice President and General Manager Morris Fertilizer Co.
Atlanta, Ga., September 19, 1916.

Letter to Councilmen.

Following is Mr. Robinson's letter to Councilmen Reynolds and Inman, in which he in forwarding his check to the city, declares that he is paying his share for the work only to avoid a legal battle, but under protest against what he characterizes as "a botch job from start to finish."

September 18, 1916.

Messrs. Reynolds and Inman, Councilmen Eighth Ward, Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen—I am a resident of West Peachtree street, at No. 780, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. I have before me a very imperative notice from the street department, that if I do not pay for work done on this street before the 20th inst., that they will turn over the matter to the city marshal for collection. In this connection I would like to remark, with all the force possible, that I deem this procedure the most unjust and unfair action that could be done by the city council as against the taxpayers along this thoroughfare. The work done was a botch from the beginning to the end, and several of us attempted to fix the responsibility, but that seemed impossible, as we were referred from city to county and back from county to city.

Right immediately in front of my residence there is a depression with no drainage facilities at all, and during rainy weather it forms a perfect cesspool and only disappears from atmospheric contact. As a matter of fact, such a condition is a menace and very apt to cause mosquitoes and sickness in this vicinity. It is somewhat beyond my comprehension that any body of gentlemen would insist that the taxpayer's money be taken from him for such overwhelming and notoriously bad work. There is very little doubt that this view is wrong, when almost every resident along this street is of the same opinion. On the other hand, where one or two people out of a large quantity dissent, in that case it may be shown that the dissenting ones may have other motives behind their views than that of which is stated.

I am sending my check this morning over to the street department to pay this amount rather than go into a long litigation, but I wish to put myself on record that it is done under violent protest and this action and opinion is backed up by the verdict as rendered of some of the best-thinking citizens of Atlanta and covers practicallyy 4,000 feet along this street.

I am paying it, and others are paying it, to avoid trouble and worry, but we are quite sure that even though it is paid, you gentlemen will interest yourselves as representatives of our ward to see that we get some semblance of value for our money and that this street be taken hold of at once and give us some return for what we are forced to pay.

As a rule, these communications are promptly consigned to the scrap basket; however, I truly trust that this will not be the fate of this communication and that we will have the council's and your valued consideration in our behalf.

Yours very respectfully,
J. W. ROBINSON,
780 West Peachtree street.

Dr. Hardman Thanks Friends Who Supported His Candidacy

Disclaiming even the remotest tinge of bitterness over the outcome of the recent gubernatorial primary election, and thanking those who voted for him, Dr. L. G. Hardman, one of the three defeated candidates, has addressed the following open letter to the people of Georgia:

To the People of Georgia: On the 12th day of September, 1916, closed my second candidacy for governor of Georgia. The people of this state gave me a splendid vote in 1914, and a good support in 1916, for which I want to express to each and every one my highest ppreciation.

I served the people of Georgia as best I could from 1902 to 1911 in the house and senate in the interest of measures that I believed looked to the development of the state, and in the interest of the masses of the people of Georgia. Every section of the state gave me splendid audiences and a most cordial welcome in 1914, and every county, city and country district in 1916 also gave me good audiences who gave me their undivided attention and a most respectful hearing; whether they were supporters of mine or supporters of my opponents, they were the most attentive and courteous in every instance, which I appreciate most profoundly. I feel today that every measure I advocated was in the interest of the state as a whole, both from the standpoint of finances and mankind. I therefore feel that I have conscientiously, as I see it, done in part my duty towards my state.

To my opponents I have the highest regard and respect and during the campaign I made no charge or accusation against them, but during my debates I referred to the principle solely as I believed that looked for the uplift of the state and a stronger righteous government.

To those who did not give me their support, I have no unkind feeling, believing that they voted for what they thought to be the best interest of the state and for them I have the highest regards and respect; and I hope that the termination of the campaign which occurred on September 12 in their favor may prove to be a great help to Georgia and a blessing to humanity. I shall spare no opportunity at any time to aid and use my feeble efforts for the interest of the masses of the whole state. There are measures needed in Georgia that I believe would contribute to the welfare of her people and I shall be glad to see them put into operation at no distant period.

Expressing to the people of Georgia my highest appreciation and good wishes for the next administration, I am,

L. G. HARDMAN.
Commerce, Ga., September 18.

Wallace Daniel Makes Unprecedented Record Of Million a Year

Wallace W. Daniel, agent for Georgia for the Provident Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, has made a record of which he and his staff are justly proud.

Mr. Daniel was responsible for inducing the management of this company to enter the Georgia field. Being one of the oldest and most conservative of the great insurance companies of America, it had not entered the south nor the far west. Mr. Daniel, who is an insurance genius, saw wonderful opportunities in Georgia for the company, and after repeated efforts and after having been turned down four times, he induced the management to extend its territory to Georgia with the beginning of this year.

"If you will come to Georgia, I will guarantee to do $1,000,000.00 worth of business the first year," said Mr. Daniel, in urging the management to enter the Georgia field.

No insurance company that had ever come to Georgia had made such a record. But there are few Wallace Daniels and it develops that he knew what he was talking about when he made the guarantee.

Opening up business in Atlanta in January he organized a staff of solicitors, not one of whom was a trained insurance man. They were taken from various lines of business and given an insurance course under the direction of Mr. Daniel. "I get better results that way," he says.

By the first of September Mr. Daniel had already passed the three-quarters of a million mark, with the full million in sight before the first of January.

And all this has been done in Atlanta alone, for his efforts have been directed solely to the organization of his business here before entering other cities of the state.

How is that for a striking insurance record?

Can you beat it?

Mixed Nomenclature.

(From The Kansas City Times.)

The Philippines are rapidly becoming Americanized. The 300-year-old "Bridge of Spain" that spans the Pasig river at Manila has been renamed "Jones Bridge," in compliment to Chairman Jones of the insular affairs committee. But it would be unfortunate if the process should stop there. There is something anomalous in a Jones bridge crossing a Pasig river. The stream ought certainly to be renamed, and it would be a graceful tribute to the chairman of the military affairs committee to call it Hay creek. It would be all right for a Jones bridge to cross a Hay creek. Somehow, that is just what you would expect it to do.

PLANS BEING LAID FOR 5TH REGIMENT HIKE

Congressman Howard Wires Adjutant General at Washington for Permission.

Plans for bringing the Fifth regiment for Southeastern Fair week proceeded rapidly on Tuesday. K. T. McKinstry was named as chairman of a committee which he will select, representing the Southeastern Fair association, to go to Macon and confer with Colonel Orville H. Hall and bring him and several staff officers back on a logging expedition over the Macon-to-Atlanta route.

Congressman William Schley Howard took up with Washington the matter of obtaining permission for the Fifth to "hike" to Atlanta. Mr. McKinstry will name his committee and will probably go to Macon the latter part of this week for the purpose of making a log of the line of march, arranging for camping sites and other details of the proposed "hike."

Congressman Howard took up the matter of permission by telegraph with General Henry P. McCain. His telegram is as follows:

Atlanta, Ga., September 19, 1916.
General Henry P. McCain, the Adjutant General, Washington, D. C.:

The Southeastern Fair association is to hold a magnificent fair October 14 to 21, inclusive. The management and the citizenry of Atlanta and North Georgia are particularly anxious to have the Fifth regiment of the national guard now at Camp Harris participate in this fair. They have a healthful and delightful location for camp. Plenty of water, light and fuel convenient. The hike would be only eighty-three miles from present location. The officers of the guard are in hearty accord with the movement. In my judgment for this regiment to participate in the features of the fair would greatly stimulate interest in the national guard. Won't you please give this matter your serious consideration and wire me your decision?

(Signed) WILLIAM SCHLEY HOWARD.

Oglethorpe University Station Will Supplant Stop at Cross Keys

Oglethorpe university, which opens today, is to have a railroad station all its own, and to be called "Oglethorpe University."

In order that such a station might be established, the Georgia railroad commission yesterday granted permission to the Southern railway to discontinue the use of Cross Keys, a flag stop near Oglethorpe university, and to establish another station about 1,000 yards from the present station at Cross Keys, to be known as Oglethorpe University.

The commission also took the following actions:

Petition to extend the time for delivering for use the new million dollar passenger station at Macon 30 days from September 14, granted.

Petition to convert the only two passenger trains of the Gainesville and Northwestern railroad into mixed freight and passenger service, denied.

Petition of the council and citizens of Douglasville to compel the Southern railway to build a new station, continued until the city of Douglasville and the Southern shall have further conferences upon the matter. The city wants a station costing about $5,400. The Southern states that the station desired by Douglasville cannot be constructed for this amount, and proposes to enlarge and otherwise improve the present station.

Jealousy Destroyed Her Happy Home; She Asks Divorce

Joe L. Holmes, an attache to a local telephone concern, recently filed suit for divorce. Yesterday his wife, Mrs. Nena Holmes, a telegraph operator, retaliated with a cross-bill, pleading that his suit be denied, and that the divorce be granted her.

She charges unreasonable jealousy, setting forth that he was envious of even her girl friends, and that he protested against her associations with former schoolgirl friends. Her once happy home, she charged, had been completely broken up by his attacks of jealousy. The cross-bill was filed by Attorney Hugh Howell and Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman.

CONVENTION NAMES HUGH PRICE SENATOR

Hugh Price, of High Shoals, has been named as state senatorial nominee of the democratic party from the twenty-seventh district, over W. W. Haynes, of Watkinsville, after a rather unusual contest.

The district committee, following the last primary, passed a resolution to the effect that the nominee in the present primary should be named by popular vote of the district. It appears that the resolution was forgotten until after the primary, when the convention met to declare the nominee, and it was shown up that Mr. Haynes had a majority of the delegates in the convention, but that Mr. Price had received a plurality of about 300 popular votes. The resolution was revived, and the convention decided that under this resolution the nomination should go to Mr. Price.

The district is composed of Newton, Walton, Oconee and Rockdale counties.

Orders Are Issued For Winter Clothes For State Militia

Governor's Island Directs Heavy Garments Be Made Ready for Trip of Soldiers to Border.

By Frank Craigie.

Camp Harris, Macon, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—It was a hard blow to the wise ones of the "sure-thing" persuasion, to the muster-out-and-go-home-crowd—that order about the overcoats; but it is a poor wind that cannot change its course some time. Now they say, "Well, let's go to Texas and get through with it."

For the eastern department has passed the word from Governor's Island, N. Y., that overcoats and woolen uniforms shall be carried to the border. As the overcoats and the winter uniforms are nearly all at the home stations of the various commands now in camp, the quartermasters will have to go back to their armories to collect and ship them to camp.

As it is still warm in the border lands, and as the war department seldom, if ever, does anything without an acid-proof reason, the guessing is now on the numbers on the wheel that mean Christmas dinner on the banks of the Rio Grande.

The war department has also announced that the engineer equipment for the organizations now in camp will be sent direct to the border—not "may be sent, if you go," but "will" be sent.

The sham battle, in which the Yellow Army endeavored to break through the lines of the Red—both armies being made up from the cavalry, in dismounted action—ended in a draw, as the tactical problem was not carried to its conclusion. The Yellow forces did break through the defensive lines of the Reds; but, had they proceeded to seize the stores and ammunition at Holton—the objective—and had they attempted to return with the captured munitions loaded in their own wagon trains, the Reds might have caught them in a grand enveloping movement, and "prisoners of war" would have come back to camp dejected and drooping.

The General Order No. 43, tightening the camp discipline, was received with some dismay—discounted largely by its expectedness—but was accepted cheerfully, despite the disappointment of the officers and men who had planned homeward trips for the immediate future.

Hereafter Camp Harris will be run on lines strictly military.

W. A. Algood Is Bound Over for Running Over Policeman's Daughter

W. A. Algood, who ran over and broke the leg of the little daughter of Policeman J. E. Hughes on Mayson and Turner avenue last month, was fined $15.75 and bound over under $300 bond by Recorder Johnson yesterday on the charge of reckless driving. Algood, it was stated, did not stop to ascertain the extent of the little girl's injuries, but put on full speed and left the scene of the accident. When arrested he denied having any knowledge of the matter, but later confessed that he was the man, claiming that he thought the child was uninjured since she got up and laughed at him.

"THE UNBORN."

Gertrude Bondhill, the Star, a Versatile Actress.

In "The Unborn," which is playing at the Georgian theater all this week, Gertrude Bondhill, who is the principal star, most cleverly portrays three distinct parts, or characters, during the action of the production. In the first part she plays the country girl, around whom the story is woven; later she plays the girl grown to womanhood, and then the double parts of the invalid mother and the clever newsboy, who is her sole suport. In each of these parts she enters with all the charm that has made her success in her performances upon the legitimate stage.

Six of the prize-winning babies in the recent contest held in New York city are shown in "The Unborn" and are made part of the plot. There are thrills a-plenty, interspersed between beautiful sentiment. The story is one that appeals and throughout the entire picture the sympathies of the people who are viewing it never forsake the girl or the man. It is a picture which teaches a lesson beneficial to every parent, especially mothers. It points out a big obligation to them. It lays bare big facts that are sometimes known and are usually kept secret. Performances are given every hour and ten minutes beginning at 10 a. m.

OGLETHORPE OPEN TODAY

The opening exercises will be held today. The board of directors will meet Friday, a reception will be tendered the university community Saturday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock by the ladies of Atlanta, and Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the great Oglethorpe jubilee will be held in the auditorium.

Oglethorpe students from Atlanta and nearby points will be given the benefit of a special commutation rate by the Southern railway. The round trip from Atlanta will be 16 cents.

WEATHER TO CONTINUE FAIR, SAYS FORECASTER

Atlanta is to enjoy the same kind of fair weather today, according to the forecast of the weather man. Cool weather will continue for several days, states the report.

Light frost has been reported from some of the middle western states, with temperatures below 50 around the lake region. Generally fair weather prevails in the west, with rather high temperatures.

The only rainfall of importance in the last twenty-four hours was in Florida and central Alabama. A light shower was reported from the north side of town Monday night, but did not reach the downtown district. There is no indication of rain in this city for some days.

Temperatures remain about the same, the highest yesterday being 82 degrees, with the lowest 52 degrees.

JOHN Y. SMITH FILES ELECTION EXPENSES

John Y. Smith, one of the newly nominated members of the next lower house of the legislature from Fulton county, has filed his schedule of campaign expenses and is the first successful candidate to file such an account in the present race. Mr. Smith's total expense amounted to $248, none of which, he states, was contributed by any "person, firm or corporation."

He shows the following items: Assessment, $50; cards, $40; advertising in newspapers, $141; badges, $7; street car fare and small incidentals, $10.

STRAND AND VAUDETTE FORM CONSOLIDATION

To Operate in Future Under Joint Management of Alpha Fowler.

Announcement was made yesterday by the directors of the formation of the Strand-Vaudette Amusement company, which in the future will own and operate two of Atlanta's leading motion picture houses, the Strand theater on Peachtree street and the Vaudette theater on Whitehall street.

While both theaters will be conducted as separate houses, they will be under the same general management, which, with the increased resources provided by the merger, will be able to give the public more pretentious programs in each theater than have been offered Atlanta movie fans before.

For some time there has been a friendly spirit of co-operation between the owners of the Vaudette and the owners of the Strand, so that it is no surprise to many people to know that they have decided to merge interests into one corporation. The merger was accomplished by the sale of the assets of the Strand theater and the assets of the Vaudette Amusement company to the new corporation, the stockholders of which are the same who held stock in the other corporations. A charter for the new corporation will be applied for this week.

In deciding on the merger, the stockholders state that they were influenced by the opportunity it offered to augment the prestige and success of both theaters. Situated on opposite sides of the city, each with its own firmly-established reputation and patronage, the Strand and Vaudeette, controlled by one general manager, are expected to gain even greater popularity in the future than they have had in the past.

Both Theaters Successful.

Ever since they were opened, the Vaudette in 1911 and the Strand about four years ago, both houses have achieved success. The class of pictures shown in each has never been anything but the best and the consistent merit of the program has attained for them an enviable place in the hearts of Atlanta's amusement-loving public. The Vaudette, operated by John and Gus Evins for years, has maintained and even increased its popularity under the direction of Alpha Fowler, while the Strand for many months has been capably managed by B. Lee Smith.

Mr. Fowler will be actively in charge of the affairs of the new corporation as general manager of both the Vaudette and the Strand. He is a theater manager of long experience, having won success not only in Atlanta, but in other southern and eastern cities. Mr. Fowler states that the programs of the Strand and the Vaudette will continue to be of the first-class order of highest excellence that they have been in the past.

MARSHAL GOES AFTER OVERDUE STREET TAX

Officials of the office of the city marshal are making a list of people due street and school tax to the city. A list of the parents having children in the city schools has been obtained from the school department and this is being used in the work of mailing out notices of street tax due. It is said that a large number of people have been found who have children in the schools and who owe the city money for street taxes. The officials of the marshal's office expect to get a nice sum from delinquents in this way.

HAPPY MARRIAGE FOLLOWS SERIES OF RAPID DIVORCES

Life is just one love spasm after another for Mr. and Mrs. Ira Chandler, who, after a series of divorces, have remarried.

They were married in 1908, at the age of thirteen years. He left her for the west after a quarrel in 1911. The following year he obtained a divorce at Longview, Texas. In 1913 he returned to Atlanta, resuming the courtship which failed to materialize successfully, but culminated in DeKalb court, where the wife got a divorce.

February of 1916 Mrs. Chandler yielded to the belated advances of her husband, and went to the courthouse in Decatur, where she destroyed the divorce papers. She was put under arrest. In the meantime, she and Chandler reunited. A jury acquitted her of destruction of public records.

Monday night they were remarried at the home of Rev. J. Morgan, 124 Pine street.

LARGE ESTATE LEFT BY THRIFTY NEGRO CITIZEN OF ATLANTA

An exemplary case of the fruits of an industrious negro's career went on the files of ordinary's court yesterday afternoon when the will of J. O. Connally, of 117 Howell street, was probated.

Connally left $13,000 in cash, perhaps, and much valuable property, most of which was bequeathed to his wife and two daughters. He directed that the lot at Old Wheat and Howell street be prepared for the construction of either an apartment house or sanatorium.

Money was left for the construction of two public drinking founts, one at Courtland and Houston streets, and the second at Butler street and Auburn avenue, in front of Big Bethel church. The home place at 117 Howell street, was left to his wife, while home places at 45 Ashby street and 58 Butler were bequeathed to his daughters.

Connally was far past fifty years, and had been in declining health for five years or more. He was a retired groceryman, and throughout his life was conspicuous for his thrift, honesty and habits. P. A. Allen and Henry Lincoln Johnson were appointed executors of the estate.

ROME MAY USE VOTE ON POOLROOM ISSUE

Rome, Ga., September 19.—(Special.) A petition calling for an initiative election on the pool room question is being circulated by City Commissioner F. B. Holbrooks, and it is expected that books will be opened at an early date for registration of names. If 423 voters sign the book, an election will be held for the purpose of determining whether or not pool rooms shall be operated here.

The city commission at its last meeting by a vote of three to two decided to license pool rooms under rigid restrictions, and the opponents of these places of amusement are now seeking an election on the question.

MANCHESTER TO HAVE WATER AND SEWERAGE

Manchester, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—The bond election held here yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining whether the city should issue $45,000 in bonds with which to install water works and sewerage, resulted in a vote of 242 votes in favor of water works, and not a single vote against. For sewerage there were 241 votes for, and 1 against. Active preparations will be started at once to sell the bonds and get the work under way so that the system of water and sewerage will be in operation before next summer.

LAMBDIN REVERSES REFEREE'S DECISION

Farmers' and Merchants' Warehouse Case, Involving Distribution of Insurance, Heard.

Moultrie, September 19.—(Special.)—Thirteen thousand five hundred dollars in insurance money was turned over to fifty-five petitioners, mostly Colquitt county farmers, by a decision of Judge W. W. Lambdin, of the federal court, in which he reversed the findings of R. J. Bacon, of Albany, special referee in the bankruptcy case of J. W. Coleman, of Moultrie.

The petitioners had cotton stored in the Farmers' and Merchants' warehouse, owned by J. W. Coleman, the bankrupt. Coleman gave them receipts marked "insured," the facts show. Then he took out $13,500 insurance.

Later he went into bankruptcy and a few days thereafter the warehouse burned. The cotton owners holding the "insured" receipts filed claim for the insurance money to cover their loss; the other creditors of Coleman objected, saying that this sum of $13,500 should not be given solely to the cotton owners, but should be apportioned among the general creditors.

Mr. R. J. Bacon was appointed special referee, and found for the general creditors—that the insurance money should be apportioned among all. Judge Lambdin reversed this finding. The decision is regarded as important aside from the sums involved, because of the precedent set.

ALIMONY TO JUMP WHEN HUBBY GETS A SALARY RAISE

What good is a raise in salary going to be to Reese J. Dean, who was informed by Judge George L. Bell in superior court yesterday morning that every time his pay check increased, proportionately upward would go his wife's alimony?

Mrs. Dean, in her suit against Dean for non-support, was awarded at Dean's present salary rate, $10 monthly allowance.

All the city officials attended, and eight policemen in uniform acted as pallbearers.

Edward Dozier, the negro who was accused of the murder of the patrolman, will be tried at the October adjourned term of Floyd superior court.

MINE OWNERS OBJECT TO CARRANZA DECREE

Washington, September 19.—American corporations having idle mines in Mexico today appealed to the state department to protest against a new mining decree reported under consideration by General Carranza. The department is making inquiries at Mexico City.

Carranza, the mine owners say, proposes to increase to a confiscatory rate taxes on developed mines in specified districts now closed because of unsettled conditions, which are not put into operation within sixty days.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION BEGUN AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—An array of military men are in the city and connected with the schools, assisting in forming the new cadet corps of the Americus High school for military instruction, which is inaugurated in the school this year. Professor Edwin Agnew, an alumnus of Clemson, has the chair of military science in the high school.

Sergeant J. A. Barksdale, of Savannah, with the coast artillery corps, stationed in Americus, is a graduate of V. M. I., and Lieutenant John F. Ross, in charge of the detail, has allowed Sergeant Barksdale time to assist Professor Agnew.

The Swiss government decided to favor the single-phase system for electrifying its railways in preference to the third rail, because it costs 10 per cent. less to make the change.

SPORTS — GUYON BROTHERS WILL HELP JACKETS — EDITED BY DICK JEMISON

Guyon Brothers to Help Yellow Jackets This Fall; One to Play, Other Coach

By Dick Jemison.

Tech's football prospects took a leap forward yesterday when it became known that the Guyon brothers—Joe and Charlie—would help the Tech team this fall.

Joe was out on the field practicing with the Jackets Monday and Tuesday, arriving here Sunday night. His long spirals down the field attracted the admiration of all present and the inquiry as to who the new phenom was elicited the fact that it was the famous Indian halfback, star of the Carlisle team of 1913, and picked on the second all-American eleven of Walter Camp that year.

Whether or not Guyon will be eligible for the Tech team this fall remains to develop. No information can be secured from the school authorities, but it is believed that while he may not be eligible for Tech's S. I. A. A. games, he can play in the games against Davidson, Cumberland, North Carolina and Washington and Lee.

If this is so, and he still has some team to play and our recollection is that he has two seasons more, he will be eligible for the 1917 eleven for all the games.

With Guyon in the Jacket backfield, they add further scoring possibilities, gain a great punter, a fleet-flooted runner and a deadly tackler, also a football player of experience, and the games with North Carolina and Washington and Lee will not be such bugbears as they first seemed.

Brother Helps Coach.

Charlie Guyon, better known to Atlantans as Charlie Wahoo, none other than a brother of the famous Joe, and in his day also a famous player on the Carlisle team, an end of national reputation, has been signed by the Tech authorities to assist with the coaching.

Guyon, alias Wahoo, will devote his entire attention to the Tech ends, taking the burden of coaching these players off of the shoulders of Head Coach Heisman. With Brookes, the George Washington star lineman, again coaching the Tech linemen, the Jackets will have three coaches that should be able to drill football into the splendid material now on hand.

Alexander and Clay, who have been assistant coaches for the past several seasons, are also on hand, giving the majority of their attention to the scrubs and acting as scouts in advance of the big games, getting a line on what the opposition may have for the next Saturday.

The exact status of Joe Huyon's case will be awaited with considerable interest by local football fans and those of the south generally.

Chicago, September 19.—A corps of pinch hitters, mustered into the game in the ninth inning by Manager Rowland, enabled Chicago to pull out a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia in the first game of the series and keep pace with the leaders. Today's victory leaves Chicago still one and one-half games behind the world's champions and half a game behind Detroit, because Boston defeated Jennings' men.

Murphy started the local ninth with a single when he batted for Ness. Fournier batted for Terry and singled. Schalk batted for Lynn and advanced both runners on a sacrifice. Felsch batted for Danforth and walked. Hasbrook ran for him. J. Collins flied to Schang and Murphy scored after the catch. Weaver walked. Eddie Collins doubled to left, scoring Fournier and Hasbrook, giving Chicago the game. Weaver's fielding was a feature.

Detroit, September 19.—Boston won from Detroit today, 3 to 1, in the first game of the series which is expected to go far toward deciding the American league championship. Detroit was unable to hit Mays when men were waiting to score. Dauss, usually effective against Boston, walked five men, three in the first inning. One of these, Shorten, scored on a single by Lewis.

Shorten also scored Boston's second run in the seventh. He doubled down the left field foul line and counted on two successive sacrifices. Hooper's triple, following a single by Mays, accounted for the other Boston run in the eighth.

Two singles and an out gave Detroit one in the fifth.

Birmingham Champions To Play Cincinnati Team In Amateur Title Series

ALEXA STIRLING LEADS GOLF FIELD

Turns in a Card of 88 in the Philadelphia Tourney--Defeats Champion by One Stroke.

Philadelphia, September 19.—Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, Ga., home of young "Bobby" Jones, sensation of the men's national golf tournament at Merion two weeks ago, won the low score medal in the qualifying round of the annual tournament for the Berthellyn cup played today over the course of the Huntingdon Valley course club, at Noble.

Miss Sterling turned in a card of 88, one stroke better than the 89 of Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, of this city, woman national titleholder, and two strokes better than the 90 of Miss Mildred Caverly, women's individual champion of Philadelphia.

The Huntingdon Valley course is about the sportiest in this district and provides a stiff test for fair golfers. Yet Miss Stirling, without having any smiles from Dame Fortune to aid her, had a 46 for her out journey and a 42 for the homeward jaunt.

Mrs. Vanderbeck went out in 44, despite a 7 on the fourth and a 6 on the sixth, and playing even better on the way in, seemed fairly sure of the medal when she teed off for the eighteenth. But first, she topped her drive, then she dubbed her first approach shot, was short on her second and eventually took 7 for what is usually an easy 4 hole.

This was Mrs. Vanderbeck's first tournament since winning the national championship last fall, and she showed she was still a bit rusty. Her score was good enough to have qualified in the national, however, but she said today she had abandoned all thought of defending her title, her physician having advised her to take it easy for another twelve months before subjecting herself to the strain of a tournament play.

Miss Stirling who, by the way, carried Mrs. Vanderbeck to the twenty-second hole in their match at last year's national tournament, has won the southern championship for women this summer, and is picked to put up a great battle for the national title when the annual tournament is staged at Boston the first week in October.

The cards for Miss Stirling and Mrs. Vanderbeck were:

Miss Stirling	out	536	545 855—46
	in	354	644 655—42—88
Mrs. Vanderbeck

BIG CROWD HEARS BOSTON-DETROIT GAME IN DETAIL

A big crowd heard the details of the Boston-Detroit game at Detroit, yesterday, as called by Dick Jemison at his baseball parlors on The Viaduct.

Today's game will also be called, starting at 2 o'clock. The admission fee will be 35 cents.

Today's game will probably be a battle between those two sterling southpaws, Leonard and Covaleskie, and the Tigers are out to even up the series.

Constitution Had Dope On Why Steve Yerkes Plays With the Cubs

The Constitution in its Sunday issue stated that Steve Yerkes was playing with the Chicago Cubs because the Cleveland Indians had withdrawn their draft for the second-sacker.

As Chicago has second claim on the locals and they have been in dire need of a second-sacker it was natural that Yerkes would be grabbed.

The official announcement of Secretary Bruce, of the national commission, confirms the Constitution's dope. As usual, the Constitution's dope is correct and first.

COBB AND SPEAKER GAINED POINT EACH

Chase Lost Ground in the National—Wheat Tagging Along Closely.

Though Ty Cobb has conceded American league batting honors for 1916 to Tris Speaker, he showed no falling off in his work at the plate Tuesday, getting two hits in four times at bat and increasing his average one point. Speaker also gained a point by getting two hits in five times at bat. Jackson failed to hit in two times up and lost a point.

Chase, leader of the National league batters, lost five points of his margin, slipping back three when he failed to hit in four times at bat, while Wheat was gaining two points by making two hits in three trials. Hornsby made one hit in four times up and Daubert one in three times, which left their averages unchanged. Hinchman hit twice in eight times at bat and lost a point. The standings:

TY COBB CONCEDES HONORS TO SPEAKER

Georgian Admits Impossibility of Trying to Cut Down Tris' Lead.

Detroit, September 19.—Tyrus Cobb, for nine years the leading batsman of the American League, today conceded that Tris Speaker, of the Cleveland club, would be the 1916 champion. Speaker now had a margin of nearly thirty points over Cobb, according to unofficial averages. Cobb said it is a human impossibility for him to try to cut down this lead and at the same time to co-operate in team play to the fullest extent of his ability. Cobb's individual efforts won two of Detroit's recent victories.

Joe Bean, dean of southern "basketballdom," will begin basketball practice at the Atlanta Athletic club this season earlier than any former year in the club's history.

Coach Bean Tuesday issued a call for all second team men to report for practice in the club's gymnasium on Auburn avenue on Monday, October 2. The first string men are not required to report for duty until October 15, or probably later.

"We are going out again for that southern championship," said Coach Bean, "and having a good second team is one of the best ways of getting it. This team makes the first."

Coach Bean's champions this year are seeking games with the University of Pennsylvania, Illinois Athletic club, who were the runners-up in the national meet at Chicago last March, and other big eastern and western teams. Plans are being laid to give the lovers of this indoor sport an opportunity to witness the best games ever staged on a southern court.

The Athletic club returns last year's victorious string of first-team champions with the exception of Lamar (Pie) Weaver, whose place at left guard will be filled this season by Johnnie Graves. This lad during the past two years has established for himself the reputation of being one of the best and gamest forwards in southern basketball. Graves once played guard, and even played it better than he did forward. His removal to guard to fill in Weaver's shoes is a wise one. To fill his place at forward Coach Bean will play Dodge, of last year's Marist five, with Forbes. Westmoreland and Lester will also return for the forward positions, while Dubard will be seen at the pivot position, with Frank Carter playing right guard.

Allan Thurman Prefers Battles on the Gridiron To Fighting for France

Charlottesville, Va., September 19.—Allan Thurman, star punter of the Virginia football team last season, would trade his place in the battle-scarred trenches of France for his old position on the "varsity eleven," according to Tackle Ward, of Virginia, who announced today he had received a letter from Thurman urging his former teammates to request his father to cable for his release from the French army. Thurman, who is under age, asks for speedy action so that he may play against Yale on October 7. It was his great punting which paved the way for Virginia's 10 to 0 victory over Eli a year ago.

STAGG RETURNS AFTER HELPING YALE COACHES

Chicago, September 19.—A. A. Stagg, athletic director of the University of Chicago, is home today after a two weeks' visit to New Haven, where he helped in the pre-season football practice by lending his advice to Walter Camp and other Yale coaches.

"I think Yale will have a better team this year than it had last," said Stagg. "The material looks promising and it is plentiful. There were seventy men out when I left, and Mr. Camp expected thirty or forty more. The men are big and are working hard."

Nonpareils 0, Nondescripts 0.

The football season was given an auspicious opening yesterday afternoon at Piedmont park, when the Nonpareils and Nondescripts met in their annual contest.

This game was, as those of former years, stubbornly fought throughout. Neither side was able to penetrate the defense of the other to any appreciable extent and the game ended a scoreless tie.

Toward the close of the last period it appeared that the Nonpareils would be returned the victors.

Antilotti punted twenty-five yards and Mackey returned the oval to the Nondescripts' five-yard line. In three trials, the Nonpareils gained two yards. For the supreme and last effort the ball was entrusted to "Big Bill" Haralson, the stalwart fullback, but he was unequal to task, as "Tanlac" Dodge broke through and threw him for a seven-yard loss.

GOOD VARIETY BILL SEEN AT THE PIEDMONT

The Piedmont's bill, from the entrance of Curwood and Gorman to the completion of the number of the Bonomor Arabs, is interesting and entertaining and is drawing crowds that fill the orchestra and balcony at all performances. Frigol is a rattling good headliner and his many impersonations are surpassingly clever. The little melodrama which he presents and in which he plays the many different roles himself is highly laughable and the audience wonders just how he manages to get away with it. The Clipper Trio sings several songs, and sings them well. The bill will be given its final presentation in Atlanta tonight. Billie Burke on the eighteenth chapter of "Gloria's Romance" and Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "Graustark" are the two screen features, which will be shown today for the last time.

Bringing Up Father in Politics.

(At the Grand.)

Gus Hill's big musical comedy, "Bringing Up Father in Politics," suggested by George McManus' cartoons of the same name is the attraction at the Grand opera house this week and it is said that laughter is good for what ails you. If you have a grough go to the Grand this week and have "Father" dispell it for you. Johnnie Jess, who portrays the role of father, is one of the funniest comedians that has trod the boards of the Grand in many moons. Girls, girls, many girls, go to make up the support of "Father" and it is said that they make up the best chorus organization playing in this country at prices in reach of all. Matinees at 2:30 p. m. will be given on Thursday and Saturday and the night performances begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Songs and quips of Nat M. Wills, whose tramp impersonation is generally conceded to be nothing short of classic, take top line position on the Forsyth Keith vaudeville bill this week. Wills, long a favorite in Atlanta, apparently never was more popular than now, if ovations he is getting signify anything. Every act on the bill is one of front line quality. The international favorites, Grace Tyson and Arthur McWatters, score emphatically in their "Revue of Revues," consisting of catchy songs and pithy bits of acting.

One of the most amazing of magic acts Atlanta has seen is offered by Neek Suen and company under the title of "Hongkong Mysteries." The characterizations by Saona, opening the bill, bring round after round of applause. Maida Vance and Harry Sylvester in songs and dances, the Saxo Sextet and others are receiving most cordial welcomes.

"Sudden Riches."

(At the Alpha.)

The management of the Alpha will show today a five-reel World firm feature, "Sudden Riches," in which Robert Warwick, the matinee idol, will play the leading role. Mr. Warwick has been seen here in many picture plays and is one of the most popular of all screen stars with the Atlanta public. He is at his best in "Sudden Riches," which is a photo-play production of many strong scenes. Mary Pickford is also scheduled on today's bill in a short feature, "The Teacher and the Bully," a picture which has never been seen in Atlanta before.

"Mister 44."

(At the Strand.)

"Mister 44," a Metro picture produced by the Yorke Film corporation, with Harold Lockwood and May Allison in the stellar roles, is the big feature attraction at the Strand today. This is one of the finest productions in which these popular stars have ever appeared, and it is one of the most entertaining features ever released on the Metro program. There is wealth of beautiful and wonderfully picturesque mountain scenes, where much of the action takes place. There are glimpses of city life in the factory district and among the slums, while in striking contrast are scenes enacted at an exclusive country club in which scores of prominent society folks actually participated.

"Mister 44" is a story of distinctive American romance, with a wholesome and refreshing appeal. Mr. Lockwood and Miss Allison have a distinguished supporting cast which includes such well-known artists of the screen and stage as Lester Cuneo, Franklin Hall, Yonda Landowska, Aileen Allen, Belle Hutchison, Lee Arms and Henry Otto. Mr. Otto also directed the production.

"The Footlights of Fate."

(At the Vaudette.)

In "The Footlights of Fate," the six-reel Vitagraph feature at the Vaudette today, starring Naomi Childers, there is a plot of the big city, the scenes laid in the hurly-burly and bustle of New York city. The picture rushes you along from department store to cabaret, into the parquet of theaters and behind the scenes, down Fifth avenue and along Broadway and Forty-second street. "Footlights of Fate" is built around the novel, "Joan Thursday," by Louis Joseph Vance, and has all of this popular author's snap and melodramatic fire. This picture will be shown today only.

City and county officials will be well represented. They were invited to join the stockholders in an inspection of the grounds and the meeting which will follow. F. J. Paxon, chairman of the committee, has arranged to have refreshments served.

The speakers will include Mr. Allen, Mayor J. G. Woodward, Mayor-elect Asa G. Candler and Mell Wilkinson.

DORSEY HILL OF YAMS GIVES RECORD YIELD

G. W. Walker, of 40 Kearns street, was so interested in the candidacy of Hugh M. Dorsey during the time he was planting his garden that he christened a certain hill of yams "Hugh Dorsey." Yesterday Mr. Walker brought to The Constitution office one mammoth potato produced by that hill, the product of which he calls "Dorsey potatoes," and he says that he would have to hire a dray to carry all that were made in the one hill.

VERNON IS REMANDED TO FULTON CO. JAIL

Marietta, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—James R. Vernon, the young farmer recently convicted in Cobb superior court of the murder of his father and sentenced to life imprisonment, is being held in the Tower in Atlanta pending the outcome of his motion for a new trial. There is much feeling against him in Cobb county, especially in the Lost Mountain district, the scene of the killing, and in order that all possibility of serious trouble might be averted, Sheriff W. E. Swanson thought it best to transfer the prisoner to Atlanta. Vernon is represented by Judge Newt Morris, who has just been elected judge of the Blue Ridge circuit, and it is understood that Judge H. L. Patterson, the present incumbent, will pass on the motion for new trial in the near future. Judge Morris is basing his fight for a new tiral on the fact that the solicitor general, Herbert Clay, disqualified himself when he employed Colonel J. Z. Foster to assist him in the prosecution of the case.

Coffee.

New York, September 19.—After an early advance the market for coffee futures reacted under renewed liquidation which appeared to be promoted by reports of an easier tendency in cost and freight offers. The market opened at an advance of 4 to 10 points and sold about 10 to 17 points net higher during the morning, with May contracts touching 9.09 on covering and bull support, which seemed partly due to a stronger technical position after the decline of 80 to 85 points from recent high levels. Offerings increased at this level and May later sold off to 9.02, with the closing showing a net loss of 5 points on September and October, while other months were 5 to 7 points net higher. Sales, 58,000.

Coffee, spot quiet; Rio sevens, 9⅞; Santos fours, 11⅝. Offers of Santos fours were reported in the cost and freight market ranging from 10.75 to 11.10, London credits.

The official cables reported an advance of 75 reis at Rio, while Santos spots were 100 reis lower and futures 25 reis higher to 50 reis lower. Rain was reported in four districts of Sao Paulo, with temperatures ranging from 57 to 88 degrees. Brazilian port receipts, 69,000; Jundiahy, 50,000. Rio cleared 10,000 and Santos 34,000 for New York.

New York, September 19.—The cotton market showed increasing strength and activity today with January contracts selling up to 16.28, or 33 points above last night's closing figures and approximately $6 a bale above the low level of a week ago yesterday. Closing prices were very steady at a net advance of 27 to 31 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 7 points on overnight buying orders and in response to higher Liverpool cables. There was a good deal of realizing and prices eased back to about yesterday's final figures right after the call, but there was only a moderate volume of selling from southern sources, and offerings were readily absorbed by active Liverpool and New Orleans buying. The presence of this support and the absence of more aggressive hedge selling encouraged a renewal of general buying and the demand seemed to broaden as prices worked above the 16c level without bringing out increased southern offerings. After showing a net advance of about 25 to 30 points, realizing increased and there were reactions of 7 to 8 points during the early afternoon, but the volume of business showed a tendency to diminish on the setbacks, suggesting confidence among recent buyers, and the highest prices of the day were made in the late trading, when October sold at 16.05; December at 16.19 and March at 16.44, or 30 to 34 points net higher. The close was within a point or two of the best on most positions. Private cables said the Liverpool market was discounting a bullish October bureau. Liverpool buying here was supposed to be for the purpose of undoing straddles, and the afternoon buying movement was also encouraged by a report of lower freight rates from New Orleans to both Liverpool and Havre. Weather conditions were considered generally favorable for picking and maturing cotton and led to predictions of heavy ginning returns, but evidently failed to disturb confidence in the bullish view of the final crop. Trade interests were good buyers during the day, while there was an active demand from Wall street and western sources.

New Orleans Up $1.50 Per Bale.

New Orleans, September 19.—The increased demand for spots in the interior of the belt and improved reports from the big dry goods markets, especially Manchester, created a buying wave in cotton today on which prices rose $1.50 a bale, January crossing the 16-cent mark. The greatest strength was shown late in the session, following the posting of southern spot market reports which showed wide advances and the best general demand thus far this season. The close was within a point of the top, at a net rise of 30 to 31 points and the tone on the close was officially called firm.

Around the opening call the market was put five to seven points up by moderate buying inspired by the good Liverpool advices and cable messages from Manchester telling of improvement in conditions in the market for both cloths and yarns. This slight rise, however, called forth heavy offerings, part of which came from recent buyers who wanted their profits. Shorts were rather liberal sellers on the heavy movement of the new crop.

Before the session was very old the spot accounts from the interior commenced to tell and by noon the market had firmed up for an advance of 28 to 29 points. For a while hesitation was shown and prices fell off a few points under profit taking, but toward the close the strongest demand of the session was met and the market rose to a level of 33 to 43 points over the lowest of the day and 31 to 32 points over yesterday's close. Local spot quotations were advanced 25 points.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

The advance in cotton prices on Monday seemed to be due more to urgent short covering than to any trade demand. It was expected farmers would be ready sellers on any advance, and therefore that hedge selling would go to the exchanges in volume. The first surprise Tuesday morning was news from Liverpool that there was practically no overnight hedge selling in that market, and when our market opened it was also conspicuous for its absence. Of course, considerable profit-taking was induced by the new high levels around the opening Tuesday, but the reaction of only about 10 points after such a swift advance was not only insignificant but very brief. New England mills were buyers early in the day and their place was taken afterwards by Liverpool buying orders, apparently for spinners' account, and this buying absorbed all offerings on an advancing scale.

The small stock of cotton seed oil and no stock of seed carried over and a short cotton crop in prospect, there is no reason why cotton seed oil should not advance. The need of Europe for fats is well known. The argument that cotton farmers will hasten ginning to get their seed on the market early, fall flat, when the big void, which must be filled is considered. Recent liquidation in this market has made the strong position of cotton seed oil stronger.

DORMEUS & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—Liverpool bought during the morning and to a moderate extent at the close. This arbitrage interest between the two markets is being rapidly reduced to small proportions because of the uncertainty about freight rates, while there is a general disposition in Liverpool to restrict trading on this account.

There has been profit taking today by some of those who have been identified with the upward movement, their holdings passing into new hands who are strong in the belief of a further advance from time to time. Contracts have been sold against purchases in the south, momentarily checking the advance. The sentiment is very bullish with the western and local traders the buyers. The south is holding spots rather than contracts. After so rapid an advance a reaction is not unlikely.

HUBBARD BROS.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—Heavy buying for both foreign and domestic interests occurred in this market today, advancing prices 30 points before the demand became satisfied. Not in many days has such steady and well distributed buying been seen and it certainly reflected the inherent strength underlying the cotton trade.

Were spinners not in possession of good orders at profitable prices the moderate crop and higher cost of raw material would place them in an uncomfortable position. This, however, has been avoided by the general employment of people in all countries not engaged in war and their increased earning power permits of their paying advanced prices for what they consider to be their necessities.

BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—The Liverpool market did not decline because of cheaper freight rates. Our market did advance. The bulls have such absolute control of the market that they cannot provoke an argument much less any selling power.

The selling which does come is from hedge for spots. The buying from the new converts to the bull ranks talk 20-cent cotton and express no anxiety whatever as to their ability to care for every bale of spot cotton that comes along. The amazing part of the present prices is the absence of any well identified bull leadership. The buying seems well scattered and well margined. The largest part of the long cotton held speculatively today seems to be held by people entirely outside the cotton trade who have never in previous years taken any chance whatever at the market.

Prices are within a shade of the highest of the season, even though the tide of crop movement is at its maximum and the higher the market goes the more frequent the complaints as to the size of the new crop become.

The recent decline eliminated a lot of weakly held cotton by the longs, but the minute the market started back up again they crawled aboard again and none of them will concede less than 20 cents as an ultimate result and many of them expect much higher than that figure.

The cotton held in the United States at the prices existing today represent about two hundred and fifty million dollars more money value than the cotton held in the United States on this same day two years ago. The quantity of cotton held today exceeds two years ago by about 11,000,000 bales. Wide and wild fluctuations are probable, but we do not think the profit in prospect equals the risk with cotton above the 16-cent level.

RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—The appearance of more aggressive buying by those identified with the spot interest sent cotton values up about two dollars per bale today. There was also a big demand based on the expectations of a very low condition report to be issued at the end of the month.

With conditions as they are at the moment the market is likely to go materially higher in the near future. We advise purchases at this level.

JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

New York, September 19.—(Special.)—At the opening of the market this morning Liverpool was a large buyer of contracts by reason of the conservative feeling which prevails in Great Britain as to any unnecessary extension of foreign business requiring remittances. The cotton trade deem it wise to close the straddle interest with American markets. The speculative sentiment favors higher prices and is now beginning to discount the October bureau report, which is expected to be a low one.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New Orleans, September 19.—(Special.)—Cotton certainly showed great evidence of the strength of its position today. There was a scramble for spots at many points in the interior and this caused considerable covering of hedges. Further enthusiastic bull speculation came into the market and January cotton sold within about a dollar and a half a bale of the high for the year. The market is now becoming dangerously high, but the bulls seem to be well in control and an even further advance may be recorded. We must advise caution to bull enthusiastics on any further advance.

STEEL AGAIN RISES TO NEW HIGH RECORD

Stock Lacks 12 Points of Reaching Preferred Basis. Trading Again Passes the Million-Share Mark for the Eleventh Consecutive Day.

New York, September 19.—Today's stock market maintained its recent reputation for excessive activity, sales again exceeding a million shares. This makes the eleventh consecutive session in which transactions have equaled or exceeded that impressive total. United States Steel retained its position as leader on a fresh advance to the new record of 109, placing it within 12 points of the preferred stock, which is on a fixed 7 per cent basis. Incidentally, the preferred, on its rise to 121, was at its best quotation since 1911.

Movements elsewhere were not altogether in keeping with the gains made by Steels, although advances far exceeded declines. Rails regained one to two points of yesterday's reversal; equipments were variably better with marked activity in General Electric and Westinghouse. Coppers and zincs responded to favorable trade conditions, and motors were inclined to throw off their recent handicaps.

Sugar and oils were in greater speculative favor, the former being represented by Cuban-American Sugar at the new record of 260, while Texas Company, Associated Oil and California Petroleum rose 2 to 3 points, with some irregularity in Mexican Petroleum.

Shipping shares were consistently backward, developing heaviness in the final hour, when the entire list, save for a few minor specialties, surrendered much of its advance on pressure, seemingly of professional origin. Total sales of stocks amounted to 1,070,000 shares.

Market news included an increase of the American Agricultural Chemical dividend from 4 to 5 per cent, additional equipment orders and higher prices for some of the base metals and by-products.

Bonds were irregular on more extensive operations. Total sales, par value, $4,875,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call, but the coupon 3's declined ½ per cent on sales.

WHEAT MAKES GAIN AFTER EARLY SLUMP

Export Orders Cause Bulge in the Market—Unsettled Close Registers Gain of 1-4 to 11-2 Cents—Other Grains Advance.

Chicago, September 19.—Liberal export buying brought about a bulge in the wheat market today, notwithstanding that at first the bears seemed to have nearly complete control. Prices closed unsettled, ¼ to 1½c net higher, with December at $1.49¾ to $1.50 and May at $1.50⅝. Corn finished ½c off to ⅞c up; oats, with a gain of ¼c and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 60c.

Wheat took a decided downward swing during the early dealings. Selling pressure showed a notable increase and there was an apparent absence of urgent demand. Temporarily the buying seemed to have been halted in consequence of reports that a new German raider was loose on the Atlantic and that within the last ten days vessels aggregating 74,088 tons had been destroyed. Besides, an embargo on export grain was in force at Newport News and there were advices that Argentina wheat was being purchased at New York. Later, however, announcement that the Dutch government had bought the Argentina wheat helped the market here to recover, and when word came that the British government was buying freely the strength of prices developed more and more.

Export sales of wheat today amounted altogether to 1,250,000 bushels, of which one-half at least was said to have been grown in the United States. The European supply total showed a falling off of 4,720,000 bushels.

Corni rallied with wheat. Early in the session frost damage reports were virtually ignored, but subsequently the deferred futures were bought owing to assertions that the injury to the crop had been greater than was generally supposed.

Oats responded to news of a sharp advance in prices at Winnipeg. The late strength of wheat and corn here helped also to cause increased buying.

Highest quotations on hogs since 1867 gave provisions in general something of a hoist. In addition there was said to have been good export buying of lard.

Sugar.

New York, September 19.—The local market for raw sugar was firm and more active today, with prices advancing ⅛c. Early in the day there were sales of about 50,000 bags of Cubas from store and prompt shipment at 4½ cost and freight, equal to 5.52 for centrifugal, and at the close 20,000 bags of Cubas were sold from store at 5.64 for centrifugal, establishing a new spot quotation. Closing quotations were 5.64 for centrifugal, 4.74 for molasses and 4 for Cubas, cost and freight, with a further buying interest at that level, although there appeared to be nothing offered under 4⅝ cost and freight for Cubas.

In refinined trading was again confined to withdrawals on old contracts, and there was a noticeable falling off in the export inquiry, although some little business was done. Prices remained unchanged at 6.40 for fine granulated.

The advance in raws led to active buying in futures by both operators and trade interests, with closing prices 6 to 19 points above last night's finals. Sales were 18,000 tons.

Right Now, Before You Forget It!

Atlanta Is to Have a Complete Information Guide!

For the first time in the history of the city, Atlanta will have a really comprehensive and valuable Information Guide that will serve and fill a long-felt want. For the first time the public will really be able to own and use a guide that will be the index of the Business, Professional and Religious interests of Atlanta.

So-called "business guides and directories" have come and gone, and conditions have remained the same. Except that there was and still is a growing need of an Information Guide that would cover every phase of Business, Professional and Religious life, and do it accurately, comprehensively and (above all) economically.

As one prominent man said: "It is the biggest small-cost idea run as a unit I ever heard of." And it is! With only a few it would be small, but with the hundreds who have and are co-operating to make it a success it is the biggest little idea ever presented the public.

Will YOU be here? It is well worth your while. It doesn't cost a cent to learn the complete details of it. We know that you will kick if you are not listed here, so we ask that you phone us about it TODAY—NOW!

24 SCIENTISTS SWORN AS FEDERAL OFFICERS

The Civilian Consulting Board Takes Its Place as Bureau of Navy Department.

Washington, September 19.—The navy civilian consulting board, composed of twenty-four of the nation's most eminent scientists and engineers, took its place today as a legalized bureau of the navy department, and the names of its members, headed by Thomas A. Edison as chairman, were placed on the rolls under a recent act of congress as "officers of the United States government."

The board's inauguration was attended by impressive ceremonies held in the office of Secretary Daniels. The highest ranking officers of the department were present and welcomed their new comrades to the naval service. Secretary Daniels, speaking as administrative head of the navy, declared that the occasion signified a great strengthening for the nation's first line of defense and gave renewed promise for the restoration of American prestige on the seas.

Immediately upon taking the oath of office the board members effected a permanent official organization. Mr. Edison was elected chairman; William L. Saunders, of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and Dr. Peter C. Hewitt, of the Inventors' Guild, both of New York city, were selected as vice chairmen, and Thomas Robbins, of the Inventors' Guild, was appointed secretary.

Preliminary plans for the $1,500,000 naval laboratory to be built under the board's direction were discussed and a committee of six was appointed to investigate and report on a suitable site. No time was fixed, but it was said the work would be expedited with a view of beginning actual construction as soon as possible. The committee was composed of Mr. Edison, Mr. Robbins, W. R. Whitney, L. H. Baekeland, Frank J. Sprague and Lawrence Addicks.

Howard E. Coffin, of Detroit, announced that the committee, which has been surveying industrial resources with a view of mobilizing them in time of war, practically had completed its work and would report soon. The survey was nation-wide in its scope, Mr. Coffin said, and had been made in cooperation with the leading business men of the country.

Secretary Daniels and most of the board members left tonight on the naval yacht Dolphin to witness target practice maneuvers of the Atlantic fleet on the southern drill grounds. They will arrive off the Virginia capes tomorrow morning and will be taken aboard one of the great dreadnaughts during the practice.

BLACKMAILER TELLS OF TRAPPING WIDOW

Lured Her to Hotel, Then Confederates Came and She Gave $5,000 Under Threat.

Chicago, September 19.—Release on bond of several members of the alleged blackmail syndicate arrested by federal agents here, and possibly continuance of their preliminary hearing, was in prospect today as witnesses from eastern cities arrived in Chicago to testify against the seven persons under arrest.

James Christian, one of the four men arrested with three women in the raid here Saturday night, was freed on bond late last night. His bail was reduced from $5,000 to $2,500 when officials admitted they had little evidence to connect him with the alleged fleecing of Mrs. Regina Klipper, of Philadelphia, the principal witness. The alleged leaders, however, probably will be held under $25,000 bond each. These are Helen Evers, Edward "Doc" Donahue and Harry "Slick" Russell.

Mrs. Klipper is expected to tell the full details of her alleged swindling by the gang and her alleged abduction to Montreal, federal officials said.

The story of the blackmailing of the Philadelphia woman involves Frank Crocker, a member of the band, who is alleged to have fleeced her, quarreled with his confederates over a division of the spoils and then turned state's evidence against them. Crocker is to be given immunity.

Mrs. Klipper, a widow with two small children, met Crocker in a New York hotel while there on a buying trip for a Philadelphia concern. She and Crocker, according to the confession Crocker is said to have made to federal officials, went to an apartment after a dinner and evening at a theater.

Shortly after midnight, according to the confession, Edward Donahue, William Butler and George Irwin, knocked at the door. All wore badges of the government secret service. A bogus warrant was produced by them for the arrest of the couple for violation of the Mann act.

Crocker, affecting surprise and indignation, wrote out a check for $5,000.

"There doesn't seem any way out of it except for both of us to kick in," was the advice he gave Mrs. Klipper. She accepted it.

When Mrs. Klipper threatened to tell her story to federal authorities members of the band kidnaped her, according to government charges, and spirited her away to a hotel in Montreal. There she was held prisoner for six months.

Charges against three of the seven members of the alleged $1,000,000 band of blackmailers were dropped when they were granted a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Foote today.

Lack of evidence prompted the action, which was opposed by the United States attorney. Those released were Mrs. Francis Allen, alias Chapman; Mrs. Edward Donahue and George Bland.

MANY LIVES ARE LOST WHEN BIG DAM BREAKS

Catastrophe Occurred in Bohemia—Watery Wall Carried Away Many Villages.

London, September 19.—Many lives have been lost, and enormous damage has been caused near Gablonz, Bohemia, by the bursting of a dam in the valley at Weissendesse, according to a dispatch to Reuter's from Amsterdam.

The onrushing waters carried away numerous glass polishing factories and it is feared there were many victims. The bridges were not destroyed, but are in danger of collapse. The damage is great.

The villages of Deszendorf, Tiefenbach, Tannwald, Schumburg, Schwarow, Grosshammer and Haratz are inundated.

Berlin, September 19.—(By Wireless.)—The dam, which gave way, was in the mountains of Bohemia, near the German frontier. Water to the depth of two metres (six feet) swept through the neighboring villages, carrying away trees, wooden houses, parts of bridges and corpses. The number of the dead has not been ascertained. The dam was 52 metres wide at the base and 13 metres high. The basin had a capacity of 400,000 cubic metres of water and was connected with another basin holding 7,000,000 cubic metres.

The dam which was situated above Tannwald was completed only a year ago. As the great mass of water was released it rushed in a 12-foot high wave down the Weissendesse valley, carrying thousands of feet of lumber on its crest, and hurling it with great violence against buildings and bridges in the village in the center of the Bohemian glass industry, destroying them as if they were match wood.

Ninety minutes after the break the flood had reached Tannwald and mounted to six feet above the bridges, tearing through the town and carrying away houses and virtually everything in its path. Shortly afterward similar scenes were repeated in the villages below Tannwald, where the waters destroyed glass cutting works, mills and houses and then carried them down stream.

A dispatch from Hirschberg, Silesia, says that according to dispatches received there, 250 bodies had been recovered up to noon Tuesday. These included many children. The disaster came so suddenly that it was impossible to give timely warning to all localities. Messages speak of waves twenty feet high destroying everything in their path over a stretch of twelve or more miles.

Peeples Thanks Friends.

To the People of Georgia:

I desire to thank my many friends throughout the state for their loyal support in the recent primary. Throughout the entire campaign I endeavored to resort to no unfair means. I wanted the office of railroad commissioner, but I wanted it honest. The people refused to favorably consider me at the ballot box and I harbor ill feeling against no man. Respectfully,

The Buyer Has His Own Way Now

"I would have bought that if I had known about it."

This expression is frequently heard now as property begins to change hands at price concessions.

People who have cash ought to drop in the real estate agents' offices and have confidential chats; they can hear something to their advantage. There are rewards in store for the courageous buyer who is willing to buy when the market is quiet, before the general public comes in.

NEGRO IS ARRESTED FOR MENACING WILSON

Raleigh, N. C., September 19.—William Mallette, a negro, was arrested here early today by United States secret service agents aboard President Wilson's special train after he had threatened and attempted to board the private car occupied by the president and his party returning to Long Branch, N. J., from Columbia, S. C.

The negro had purchased a ticket for Washington, but missed a regular train which left here shortly after midnight. The president's special, following, made a brief stop at the Union station, and Mallette attempted to board it. He was taken in custody by the secret service agents and delivered to the local police, who entered a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct against him.

In municipal court today Mallette was sentenced to serve thirty days on the county roads, but was released on $200 bond after giving notice of an appeal.

PERIL OF LIVE WIRES EXCITES PEDESTRIANS

Traffic was held up and the lives of passers-by endangered yesterday as a result of an unusual accident which befell the Whitehall-West End car on Whitehall street, between McDaniel and Humphries streets. The trolley of the car, slipping off of its cable, hit against one of the guard wires which anchor the trolley cable to the telephone posts. The vibration set up in this wire caused the post to snap off at its base and fall into the street, blocking traffic and exposing passers-by to the danger of contact with live wires.

MANY NEGROES ATTEND WAYCROSS CONVENTION

Waycross, Ga., September 19.—(Special.)—With twenty-one hundred delegates present from Georgia, Florida and Alabama, the annual tri-state convention of the Order of the Supreme Circle, a negro association, convened here today, to continue in session through Sunday.

W. O. Watson, of Albany, is the present head of the organization. At the opening exercises tonight a number of talks were made and Mayor Deaton, for the city, extended the delegates a welcome.

LOWEST DEATH RATE IN COUNTRY'S HISTORY

Washington, September 19.—The lowest death rate in the country's history is shown in preliminary vital statistics for the year 1915, made public today by the census bureau.

The rate, 13.5 per thousand, is based on reports from 25 states and 41 cities with a total population of about 67,000,000. In 1914, the percentage of deaths was 13.6, the lowest recorded up to that time. There has been a steady decrease. The average rate during the period 1901-05 was 16.2.

Will Erect Crematory.

Cordele, Ga., September 19.—Cordele's newest municipal improvement is to be a modern crematory, the cost of which will be approximately $4,000. The incinerator has been purchased from a Macon concern and is now being installed.

BIG DRAINAGE PROJECT UNDER WAY IN FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., September 19.—After fifteen years of effort on the part of property owners of the upper St. Johns river to secure the drainage of what is declared to be the largest special drainage district in the south, a federal permit to proceed with plans which have been finally agreed upon by engineers of the government and engineers of the district, is expected here in a few days. An agreement was reached in Washington with the war department Saturday, according to announcement of counsel for the district, who returned to Jacksonville this morning.

Plans involve the draining of lands in four counties and part of others. They include Osceola, Orange, Seminole and Brevard. Over 400,000 acres of land will be drained when the project is complete. The work will involve an expenditure of $3,000,000.

While the system of main and lateral canals which will criss-cross the district will not empty into the St. Johns river, they will be so constructed that at any time it is desired to connect the St. Johns and Indian rivers this can be done at little expense. These main canals will have a depth of twelve feet and will be navigable. Several hundred miles of canals will be opened and about three years' work will be necessary to complete the system.
